Plan Open House At New Gettysburg Area HS On Sunday From 1 To 4 P.M.

The new Gettysburg Area High School, which went into use just after the Thanksgiving vacation, will be opened for public inspection at an "open house" Sunday afternoon from 1 to 4 o'clock.

Teachers will be on hand Sunday afternoon to serve as guides as they did Thursday evening when nearly 400 school district employes, school directors and their wives and husbands attended the seventh annual personnel dinner in the cafeteria of the new school.

The program for the dinner was brief with Oren H. Wilson, president of the Gettysburg Joint School Board, presiding. There were introductions of new school teachers and directors and then silver trays were presented to three retired teachers in appreciation of their years of service.

HONOR RETIRED TEACHERS

The three retired teachers specially honored were Mrs. Eva D. Bower, who taught in the high school and then at Keefauver Elementary School; Mrs. Marian M. Milhime., former Third Grade teacher at Meade School, and Robert E. Sheads, a former high school teacher.

Charles E. Tressler, principal at the new building, was introduced and later gave instructions for the tour of the building. The audience was divided into groups of about 25 and a teacher assigned to each for the one-hour tour.

County Superintendent of Schools M. Francis Coulson and members of his staff were introduced as were former directors of the Gettysburg Joint School System who had been members of the board when the new building was begun.

DISTRIBUTE BROCHURE

The invocation was given by Clifford B. Snowberger, Gettysburg Area Junior High School principal.

Thursday evening's inspection tour took visitors into every part of the new million dollar school with the exception of the modern, compact kitchen which was busy, as a result of the earlier banquet.

At each place at the banquet was a descriptive brochure on the new building which also will be available to vistors at Sunday's "open house."

FINANCED BY BONDS

The new building was financed by a $1,465,000 bond issue which is to be paid off in 29 years. Mem-

Diefenbaker Accuses U.S. Of Butting Into Canadian Affairs-Defense Program

By MAX HARRELSON

OTTAWA (AP)—U.S. criticism will not change Canada's defense policies, Defense Minister Douglas Harkness told the House of Commons Thursday night. Opposition parties stepped up their attacks on the government but rallied behind Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker's charge that Washington was butting into Canadian affairs.

An emergency debate in Commons brought no attempt to topple Diefenbaker's Conservative government. But the groundwork clearly was being laid for an election campaign built around the nuclear weapons controversy.

"CRISIS PITCH"

The U.S. State Department raised the controversy to crisis pitch with a charge Wednesday that Canada, by failing to accept American nuclear arms, is dragging its feet in the defense of North America and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The debate took place as speculation mounted that Diefenbaker will dissolve Parliament and call for a general election on the nuclear arms issue. But the prime minister remained silent after accusing the State Department of "unwarranted intrusion" in Canada's affairs.

NEITHER SATISFIED

The emergecy debate ended with neither side satisfied. The House was scheduled to return today to routine business.

Th controversy was branching off into two phases:

Condemnation by both Diefenbaker's Conservatives and his opposition of the State Department for criticizing Canada's defense policies and for doing it in a press release.

A domestic political issue in which Diefenbaker is being criticized by the opposition on a charge of refusing to say clearly whether Canada will accept a nuclear role. In this, the opposition blames Diefenbaker for causing the U.S. criticism.

Storm Drives Hundreds From California Homes, Blocks Roads, Railroads

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rain swollen rivers surged through hundreds of evacuated homes in Northern California today, pushed against hurriedly built sandbag dikes in Reno, Nev., and blocked traffic on main east-west highway and rail routes across the Sierra

Gale force winds pounded the Northern California Coast a third straight day and began an attack on the Oregon Coast.

The battering wind and rain was the power head of a chain of storms raging in the Pacific, from northwest of Hawaii to the mainland.

Gusts up to 70 miles an hour lashed the Hawaiian Islands Thursday closing Honolulu Harbor and forcing a jet liner carrying England's Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip from Edmonton, Alberta, to Honolulu to turn back to Vancouver, B.C.

FIVE LOSE LIVES

In California five deaths were blamed on the storm. A boy was missing.

There was no immediate relief in sight. The Weather Bureau said the Pacific storm chain was driving eastward, its series of storm centers aimed at the Oregon and Washington coasts.

The storms meant snow for chilly western Washington where two inches was expected by this morning. The Yakima Valley area of central Washington, which received 14 inches of snow Thursday, expected an additional 8 to 10 inches. Snow was general in eastern Washington and many schools were closed throughout the state.

AREAS BLACKED OUT

Wind gusts up to 55 m.p.h. freed western Oregon from four days of snow and ice. As the thaw extended to northern Oregon it produced rain which froze on still cold power lines, pulled them down and blacked out vast areas from the coast 100 miles inland.

Thousands of homes in the Portland area were without pow-

Pennsylvania, he said is "blessed with beautiful lakes, waterfalls, state mountain resorts and community playgrounds that attract tourists from all parts of the country." The extensive use of the forests for recreation "makes it necessary for local residents to make early reservations if they want state park cabins or camping privileges." He said that those wishing full information pertaining to state park privileges should write the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters, Division of State Parks, Harrisburg.

He said wood is "our greatest renewable natural resource" and that many benefits accrue from forest management or "tree farming." The woods protect watersheds from erosion and management of the watershed forests can

PROBE CLAIMS REDS PUSHING CUBAN BUILDUP

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., called a meeting today of the Senate Preparedness subcommittee and promised it "will get all the facts on the military buildup in Cuba."

The facts were demanded Thursday by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., who told the Senate that:

1. A large Soviet ship unloaded a cargo of armaments in Cuba last Friday.

2. "There is continuing, absolutely confirmed and undeniable evidence that the Soviets are maintaining the medium range (missile) sites they had previously constructed in Cuba."

"There has been no move to dismantle three sites or withdraw the launching equipment, as would expect if the Soviets intended in good faith to keep these missiles out of Cuba in the future," said Keating.

Shortly after Keating's speech, a Pentagon spokesman confirmed that two more Soviet ships had arrived in Cuba but added, "There is no evidence that either carried offensive weapons."

But the Pentagon spokesman flatly denied Keating's claim that the Soviet missile bases were still intact, saying:

"Concrete launch pads were broken up and other parts of the installations were destroyed. There is no evidence that these sites are usable, that they are being used for any military purpose, or that they are being maintained."

The spokesman identified the Soviet ships as the Kasimov and Baltica. He said they had arrived since President Kennedy told his news conference last Thursday that Cuba is being kept under daily surveillance and that one ship with possibly military cargo has docked there since the October crisis.

DENY APPEAL FOR PAROLE

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's Pardon and Parole Commission had voted 4-0 not to recommend any change in the second-degree murder sentence of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, former Bay Village osteopath convicted of killing his pregnant wife eight years ago.

The handsome father of one entered the Ohio prison system July 20, 1955. By law, he must serve a minimum of 10 years, less time for good behavior, before he can be considered for parole.

His attorneys petitioned for a clemency hearing, which was held Tuesday, in the hope of convincing commissioners that Sheppard's medical services and conduct in prison have earned a reduction in sentence to manslaughter or commutation to time already served.

The parole commission—with the exception of Col. William M. Vance, who disqualified himself because of a previous connection with the case—voted Thursday, but withheld announcement of the result until today.

The decision was forwarded to Gov. James A. Rhodes, who is not obliged to follow it.

BULLETINS

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Sen. Joseph S. Clark said today that remarks he made about Philadelphia Democratic organization concerned the collection of party contributions for the passage of legislation are true and not libelous.

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Federal Judge Frederick V. Follmer, hospitalized since last Monday, said today he would be forced to call another recess in the income tax evasion trial of August J. Lippi.

NEW STUDENT FIGHTS REJECT TO 'OLE MISS'

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The University of Mississippi now faces the prospect of a second court battle over desegregation. Another Negro wants to join James H. Meredith as a student at the university.

Meredith's enrollment for the spring term went off quietly Thursday. But the university rejected the application of Dewey Greene Jr., 22, Greenwood, Miss., who attended Mississippi Vocational College for Negroes last year.

LACKS QUALIFICATIONS

Greene was told he did not meet entrance requirements of the university.

An attorney for Greene said he would ask a federal court to order the school to accept Greene.

William Higgs, a white attorney representing the Gandhi Society for Human Rights, told a news conference late Thursday night that he would seek to have the university registrar, Robert B. Ellis, held in contempt of court for denying Greene's application.

The son of California Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Yale University law student Jerry Brown, is assisting Higgs in the Greene case.

Ellis told newsmen he turned down Greene because he was not qualified for admission—the same grounds which the university cited in two letters last fall rejecting Green's written application.

WIRED GREENE

Ellis—cited for contempt twice previously during the long legal fight leading to Meredith's enrollment—said he sent Greene a telegram confirming the two letters and asking him not to appear on campus.

Higgs said he would ask U.S. District Court to order Greene's admission under the terms of the same court order which admitted Meredith.

Meredith's suit was a class action—which means the court order applies to any Negro.

Although Meredith has two classes which meet Saturday, he said he would not return to campus until Sunday.

The police report said the tractor-trailer halted with part of the trailer on Buford Ave., because the driver of the vehicle could not enter the driveway due to autos parked there.

At that moment a car being driven east by Kermit Shultz, Gettysburg R. 2, struck the rear wheels of the trailer causing $35 damage to the car and none to the trailer.

J. GRIFFE AIMS CHIC FASHIONS AT TOP SOCIETY

By LUCIE NOEL

PARIS (AP)—Jacques Griffe, a perfectionist, presented his spring and summer collection today for the woman who knows and wants understated chic.

Griffe's collection has simple lines upsetting no standards and setting a pace of its own aimed at upper crust society.

His clothes are marked by the shirtwaist suit with curved edges, high notched collars and single-breasted buttoning. He also shows apron tunics with paneled skirts.

DRUM-MAJOR HAT

The only gag in his collection is a drum majorette's peaked cap in oversized proportions and fragile fabrics. Lesur wools and silks are among those favored.

For daytime, Griffe showed the overblouse and straight plain coats, often cut on the bias and usually dress length.

The tops of dresses are often treated to deep cowl necklines and slashed strips of fabric in the Renaissance mood.

FLORAL CHIFFONS

Sheer ensembles for afternoon are in printed floral chiffons and organza. Sheer dark chiffons or organzas are used mainly for evening.

Sleeveless coats in the same sheer fabrics are dress length, several are cut with three armholes to wrap around. Many coats tie on the left shoulder at the back after they wrap.

Subtle shades are shown for evening—including lemon, grapefruit and rose. White and black are also favored.

Bosoms are flat throughout.

Last Month Cold At Arendtsville

Daily high readings averaged 33.6 degrees and the daily low readings averaged 15.2 degrees. The temperature range was from a high of 50 degrees on January 10 to a low of -8 on the 29th.

During 10 days last month the mercury stayed below the 32-degree mark and there were only two days on which freezing temperatures were not recorded. Snowfall totaled 6½ inches and precipitation amounted to 1.97 inches, an inch short of normal and 0.38 inch below the total for January of last year.

People who go to the car races provide more money for Berwick Township's operation than the residents themselves, according to the report of the auditors filed in the clerk of court's office.

The report shows that during 1962 the township received $2,748.04 from real estate taxes, $462.76 rom the per capita tax and $4,933.32 from the amusement tax levied on admissions to the speedway.

The township makes a five-mill levy on real estate and has a $1 per capita tax on its 625 residents. The residents owed $280.16 on the per capita tax for 1962 when the books closed December 31. They also owed $202.71 on their real estate taxes for 1962.

The township received $7,286.80 from sources other than the local taxes during the year. Liquor taxes provided $150, fines brought in $1,030 and the state provided $4,749.13. WAYNESBORO, Pa. (AP)—Joe W. Ausherman, chairman of the Franklin County commissioners, announced his candidacy for re-election in the May primary with this classified ad in the Waynesboro Record-herald:

rough grading, $34,561; site acquisition, $16,661; bond discount, $29,300; legal fees, $11,375; printing authority expenses, etc., $6,250, and a contingency fund of $13,203.

In 1961, a $1,465,000 bond issue was sold to be paid off in 29 years and nine months. The average interest cost on the bonds is 3.52251 per cent. Similar bond issues in the state have drawn interest rates of from 3.06 to 4.5 per cent, Supt. Riegle said. The annual rental to be paid by the member districts is $98,500.

USE OLD AUDITORIUM

The building, part of it two-story, has a floor area of 71,918 square feet. The per square foot cost is $17.99 and state averages range from $15 to $20. The cubic foot cost is $1.09 while state figures range between $1 and $1.15 per cubic foot.

The fact that there is no auditorium in the new school, except for the cafetorium, and that most interior walls are painted concrete block rather than plastered contributed to the comparatively low cost figure on construction. While economy and elimination of "frills" from the plans were born in mind during the planning for the new school, the final test in the plan-making was the educational needs of the school district, school officials said. The 1,500-seat auditorium in the present junior high school building continues to serve both schools.

In Northern California and Nevada the warming rain and snow melt produced more water than the rivers could carry.

At Reno, National Guard troops sandbagged the Truckee River which runs through the city. Gambling continued normally in nearby casinos. Four bridges in downtown Reno were closed as a safety measure but city officials said they were not in immediate danger of being washed out.

AIRPORT CLOSES

The rising Truckee caused the Reno Airport to close Thursday night.

In Napa, about 35 air miles northeast of San Francisco, the Napa River ran bank full, closing several of the main streets and causing some 40 persons to leave their homes.

Merchants, their employes and Sea Scouts filled sandbags for use in the downtown area of Napa, if needed.

Suddenly rising temperatures sent melted snow gushing into Bancroft in southeastern Idaho, flooding basements and forcing stores to move out stock.

YORK, Pa. (AP) — State Rep. Stanley H. Gross, R-York, says he will introduce a bill in Harrisburg Monday to amend Pennsylvania's 1961 compulsory school reorganization law.

Gross said Thursday his amendment would lower the present 4,000-pupil minimum standard to 2,000 and the 2,500-pupil minimum permitted under certain conditions to 2,000.

Diefenbaker

Harkness told Commons that the U.S. note presented an obstacle to agreement with the United States on accepting nuclear weapons.

But he drew jeers and laughs when he said Canada's policy is "clear and responsible." He said the government plans the same course it has followed in the past five years.

Cries of "shame" rose from the House floor when Diefenbaker reported that the State Department statement reached the Canadian foreign ministry only a half hour before it was released to the press.

EXPRESSES REGRET

"There are well recognized channels for the exchange of points of view between sovereign countries and allies even when these points of view differ, as they must, and I express my very great regret that the United States Department of State did not see fit to follow the usual course in communicating its view," he said.

In Washington, a State Department spokesman said the statement was released "in response to numerous inquiries received by the department and was designed to clarify the United States position."

Diefenbaker called the action "unprecedented."

"I weigh my words when I say that it constitutes an unwarranted intrusion in Canadian affairs," he said.

Diefenbaker said his government will "honor its obligations" and strive for understanding and cooperation with the United States.

"Canada is determined to remain a firm ally but that does not mean that she should be a satellite," he said.

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Furnace Trouble Closes Blue Parrot: The Blue Parrot tea room closed today when the coal furnace which heats the building developed trouble, and no meals were served. James A. Aumen, proprietor, said repairmen were working on the furnace and hoped to have it operating again by Tuesday. Cause of the trouble had not been established definitely, but it was believed that one of the lines carrying steam to a radiator had frozen or become clogged, building up a back pressure at the furnace. It was necessary to put the fire out.

Times Severely Handicapped By Acute Shortage Of Gas: The critical shortage of gas in Gettysburg today turned the clock back three score years or more at the plant of The Gettysburg Times today, and much of the newspaper was being hand-set, when there was not enough gas pressure to operate the melting pots on several linotypes and other casting machines.

There was no gas to heat the metal used in casting type until late this morning. One linotype machine, then two, and finally three of the nine linotypes customarily in operation became available as the morning wore on. These were obtaining only very low pressure, however, but it was enough to cast sufficient type for today's paper. The other machines remained idle.

There was no gas to operate the Ludlow head-setting machine.

Printers turned to type cases, and set several store advertisements by hand. Many headlines were set with old-style type.

In spite of these unusual difficulties, the newspaper went to press as usual today, maintaining its record of never failing its readers or advertisers.

The large gas furnace at The Times plant was cut down to less than 68 degrees. This furnace supplies heat for the entire Times plant, apartments on the second floor and the Thompson store.

Mother Of Local Pastor Dies Today: The Rev. Robert M. Hunt, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, received word at noon today that his mother Mrs. Letitia Hunt, Cleveland Heights, died at 10:30 a.m. in St. Luke's Hospital in Cleveland. A heart condition caused death.

Mrs. Hunt was stricken critically ill early in December and her condition had remained serious since that time. There are three sons and a daughter surviving. The Rev. Mr. Hunt planned to leave later in the day for Cleveland. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Midweek services scheduled for this evening at the local church have been cancelled.

Geologic Phenomenon Like Devil Den Rocks: Deeply-bored and sculptured rocks in the bed of the Susquehanna river near York Haven, which were discovered for the first time during the prolonged drought last fall, are of the same rock formation as the boulders at Devil's Den, on the battlefield, according to an article written by Herbert H. Beck, director of the Franklin and Marshall college museum. The article appears in the January bulletin of the Pennsylvania Department of Internal Affairs.

Beck says the rock formations, unknown to geologists and never before reported to scientists, are of Triassic diabase. Last October 26, 10,000 persons visited the scene. The pot-holes were bored throughout many millions of years as the currents of the river swirled sand, pebbles and rock.

Councilman Butt Is Stricken In Florida: Curnal L. Butt, Steinwehr avenue, borough councilman, has ben stricken with paralysis below his waist according to word received by members of his family here. The attack occurred in Jacksonville, Fla., where he and Mrs. Butt have been visiting.

According to a daughter, Mrs. C. Donald Rebert, Steinwehr avenue, Mr. and Mrs. Butt left after the January meeting of town council for a trip to Florida. Mr. Butt had been ill health for some time and it was hoped that the trip would aid his health. They visited Key West, Fla., and Miami, and were at Jacksonville when Mrs. Butt call[ed] Tuesday night to inform the family here of Mr. Butt's attack. She said that a doctor had been called but that he did not immediately say what had caused the attack. She said she planned to drive home with Mr. Butt as soon as he is able.

Mr. Butt owns a service station and cabins on Steinwehr avenue.

Sgt. VanDyke, whose father is principal of the High Street school here, served 18 months in an infantry outfit. He returned to the United States from Korea January 10 and received his discharge at Camp Stoneman, Calif., Monday. He flew to Washington.

A certain southern lady waited what her neighbors considered an indecently short length of time after the death of her husband, to marry his brother. She did have the kindness to hang a picture of her departed mate in the parlor, and this somewhat mollified her friends — that is, until they overheard a remark she made to a stranger, who asked about the picture.

"Oh," said the recently re-married lady, "that's my poor brother-in-law. He passed away recently.

Tubeless Tire Demonstrated: The first automobile equipped with tires which can perform satisfactorily without the conventional inner tube to travel the streets of Gettysburg arrived here today. It was driven by V. J. Gigl, territory manager of the B. F. Goodrich company, manufacturers of the tires.

Called "one of the most revolutionary developments since the pneumatic tire was first created," the tubeless tire, known formally as the "Seal-O-Matic tubeless" was announced by the Goodrich company only a short time ago, and is just now getting into limited production.

Development of a tire which would need no inner tube has been the goal of most tire manufacturers for many years, Mr. Gigl declared, and it was announced by his company after many years of research and development, and only after it had passed all the tests and showed it would perform just as well, or better than the casing with the conventional tube.

One of the features of the new product, which makes it practical, is the incorporation of a puncture sealing compound on the interior of the tire. The tire has improved riding qualities, high bruise resistance and remarkable ability to retain air pressure, according to Mr. Gigl.

Today's Talk

COMMON INTERESTS

Many people have to live a long time before they come to realize that they belong to the great stream of life — just folks among folks. When they arrive at this point, they delight most in those things which are most mutual, and in interests that are most common to all.

Single track minds have little in common with the masses. Outside a very few they are interesting in themselves to no one. To have the genius for friendship is to be gifted in a high degree, because such a one knows the route to common interests, which, after all, is the direct route to happy talk and happy communion.

I have met and known many people, known to the world as great men and women — but such ones are always most versatile and friendly, easy to talk to and easy to understand. Only the never-to-be-great are aloof, no matter how high an opinion they may have of themselves.

Common interests are the universal interests — interests embodied in beauty, in the ordinary hopes and aspirations of people, and the general love for that which warms the inner feelings of people.

Gardeners and tillers of the soil have always interested me for the reason that such folks seem to have extracted so much truth out of life. Out in the open, where most of their lives are spent, the true and genuine principles of life are formulated. They view the joys and sorrows of life in the raw, as I might say. Nothing is veneered.

I recall reading of a very noted man who had hosts of friends and who loved to entertain them at his home — but thing that made people love him was that he always chose companions who had common interests, so that his life kept spreading itself at every meeting of himself with his friends.

Common interests are always those of the truly educated man or woman.

LADY AND HER DOG

A little dog in a lady's lap
One day last summer I chanced to see,
With a squeaky yip and a peevish snap
As small, I'm sure, as a dog can be.

Now I've nothing to say of that curious pair,
For a friend of all manner of dogs am I,
But I like them big, with plenty of hair
And a bark you can hear as you journey by.

I make no quarrel with her who chose
That insignificant fyste to raise,
As a lover of dogs I don't propose
My own particular breeds to praise.

But this I say: iff such mongrels can
Go out in the world and discover a friend
And a woman to love them, what right has man
To give up in despair till his life shall end?

World Awaits Forecast By Lowly Groundhog Soon

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa. (AP)—World attention shifts from Paris and Degaulle to Gobblers Knob and Punxsutawney Phil Saturday for the annual weather forecast by the oracle of the animal kingdom.

It's Groundhog Day once again—that momentous occasion when Punxsutawney Phil climbs out of his tranquil burrow and searches for his shadow.

If the Cassius Clay of the rodents spies his shadow—and he always does—then there will be six more weeks of winter. If he sees nothing but the barren ground, then spring is close at hand—or rather at paw.

SINCE 1898

Of course, there are some who claim Phil is too late this year since De Gaulle spotted his ominous shadow over the Continent last week and predicted a multitude of stormy weather.

But even such interlopers as the Frenchman do not discourage Phil and his veritable boosters, the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club.

Since 1898, members of the loosely-organized club have been interpreting the weather predictions of Phil and his veracious ancestors for the outside world.

WAS WAR SECRET

"During the World Wars," Light said, "the government asked us not to reveal the forecast because it would help the enemy."

Light and other members of the Punxsutawney club will be at the Knob Friday morning for Phil's prophecy at a banquet in this western Pennsylvania community. Affiliated chapters of the Punxsutawney organization will hold their annual banquets in such places as Pittsburgh, San Francisco, Cleveland and Chicago.

SOME SKEPTICS

There are other grizzled woodchucks attempting to make similar weather forecasts tomorrow, but Phil and his ebullient followers scoff at what they term "the phonies."

"Ours is the true groundhog," says Light, Phil's imperious protector. "The rest are Johnnie-come-latelies who bask in our sunlight. They're purely imitation."

Still, there are skeptics who proclaim the whole idea as a farce.

But as P. T. Barnum once declared:

"There's a groundhog's friend born every minute."

Each year the U. S. sells about $4 billion worth of farm and factory products to people in the Common Market nations — West Germany, France, Italy, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

COST-PRICE SQUEEZE IN STEEL ACUTE

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Evidence mounted today that the cost-price squeeze in steel has become acute for the industry leaders.

The situation could have a bearing on whether the United Steel Workers Union picks up an option it can exercise after May 1 to press for higher wages or other benefits.

Bethlehem Steel Corp., the nation's second largest producer, reported Thursday that 1962 earnings had hit a 15-year low. Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., ranking fourth, reported a sizable drop in profits from 1961.

NO TIME TO RAISE COST

The news followed by two days the disclosure that the No. 1 steelmaker, U.S. Steel Corp., had its poorest year for profits since 1952.

At a news conference after Bethlehem reported, Arthur B. Homer, board chairman, was asked about prospects for a reopening of wage negotiations.

"This is no time for any wage or employment cost increase," he replied. "It would be very bad for the economy and the steel industry. I'm hoping there won't be any. However, we don't know."

Agreeing with Roger M. Blough, U.S. Steel chief, Homer said there are indications that the union has a bitter understanding of industry problems.

Bethlehem said it had cleared $88,677,761, or $1.80, a share, last year, down from $122,357,028, or $2.54 a share, in 1961. The figure was the lowest since the company netted $51.1 million in 1947, and less than half the $191 million earned in 1957, Bethlehem's all-time high.

Homer said the lack of an increase in prices, higher employment costs, a continued relatively low level of general demand for steel, and a slump in Bethlehem's important shipbuilding operations had hurt profits.

Bethlehem was one of seven major producers that posed a $6-a-ton increase in prices last April, then withdrew it in the face of a hostile response from President Kennedy and failure of some companies to go along.

EXPEDITER FOR STATE COURTS VERY COSTLY, JUSTICE SAYS

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A statewide courts administrator would be "absolutely unnecessary," says Chief Justice John C. Bell of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.

He also said Thursday that such an administrator and his "inevitable large staff" would cost the public some $300,000 to $500,000 annually.

However, he granted in an address at the opening of the Pennsylvania Bar Association's three-day annual meeting that court administrators on the local level might be valuable.

The post of a statewide administrator has been proposed by the Bar Association's Judicial Administration Section.

It was backed by Judge Anne X. Alpern of Allegheny County in a letter to Bell. The chief justice referred to the letter in his remarks.

The proposal calls for the Supreme Court to appoint an administrator to speed court action by studying current conditions and recommending assignment of visiting judge to help busy courts.

AT LOCAL LEVEL

It is one of a series of proposals falling under the question of revising the state's 88-year-old Constitution, which is the meeting's main topic.

In speaking of court administrators on a local level, Bell said such administrators could be particularly useful in Allegheny County and Philadelphia where courts chronically are plagued by a heavy backlog of cases.

He said Philadelphia's seven courts should be consolidated into one, adding:

"Everybody agrees with that, except maybe those seven judges."

Fewer jury trials in civil cases also would help lessen backlogs, said Bell, who put forth the following suggestions:

Reduce some court opinions to a few words or lines, prohibit unnecessary court continuances, require overburdened attorneys to have assistants or "farm out" some of their cases, eliminate minimum sentences from the criminal code and have Superior Court relieve the Supreme Court of some of its work load.

Many judges already work 60 hours weekly in contrast with "the public-be-damned attitude" witnessed in many strikes, Bell said.

SCHNADER SPEAKS

In another address, association President William A. Schnader of Philadelphia urged that qualifications be raised for those selected to serve in "minor judiciary" jobs such as alderman, justice of the peace or magistrate.

He added:

"It is in these minor so-called courts that most of our people get their impression as to the administration of the law. It is there that many of them learn to feel that there is in Pennsylvania no such thing as the administration of justice."

Michigan Gov. George B. Romney has taken a neutral stand on a proposal to amend state laws to permit Sunday liquor sales in Detroit. The governor, a teetotaler, said he occasionally serves liquor in his home.

"We found out long ago that if we didn't serve liquor our guests would just get well-fortified before they came," he added.

Gov. Carl E. Sanders of Georgia has signed an executive order creating a committee to rid Georgia of its reputation as a speed-trap state. The group will investigate speed-trap complaints and report to the governor and the legislature.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Secrist of Atlanta, Ga., have donated to the Library of Congress in Washington about 1,700 rare opera records, including a complete collection of recordings of Enrico Caruso. German Countess Wanda Puker, 73, her sister, Margot, 70, and the countess' daughter, Baroness Margot Schaffer von Bernstin, 47, held a joyful reunion in Verona, Italy, with 30 Italian prisoners they befriended during World War II.

The prisoners were forced laborers at the countess' Lagow estate in Poland. The three women slipped past armed guards at night to give the Italians food and words of cheer.

As the war was ending, one of the prisoners took the ladies safely to American and British lines to keep them from falling into the hands of advancing Soviet troops. The ladies now live at Limburg, Germany.

FDR JR. GETS APPOINTMENT BY KENNEDY

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has selected Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., a former campaign lieutenant and son of the late president, to be undersecretary of commerce.

If the Senate confirms the nomination, the 48-year-old Roosevelt will succeed Edward Gudeman, who is returning to private business, in the $21,000-a-year post.

Announcement of Roosevelt's designation Thursday opened two avenues of speculation: That he might eventually succeed Luther H. Hodges as secretary of commerce or that is is being groomed for a Senate nomination from New York in 1964.

"DYNAMIC, GIFTED"

Newsmen asked Pierre Salinger White House press secretary, if there was any understanding that Roosevelt would move up as secretary should Hodges resign. Salinger said he knew of no such understanding and Hodges issued a statement describing Roosevelt as "a dynamic and gifted person."

Roosevelt was elected to Congress from New York in 1949 and served two terms and part of a third. He makes his home in Washington, where he has a foreign auto agency, but the White House listed the appointment as from the state of New York.

Along with the Roosevelt nomination the White House announced Kennedy had picked Dr. Richard H. Holton of Berkeley, Calif., to be assistant secretary of commerce in charge of economic affairs. The $20,000 post also is subject to Senate confirmation.

TVA Advertises For 25,000 "Palnuts"

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The Tennessee Valley Authority announced with routine formality that it wants to buy 25,000 palnuts.

A spokesman for the river development agency was pressed by a reporter for a definition Thursday.

"Say that again," he requested. The newsman obliged: "palnuts. p-a-l-n-u-t-s."

The TVA man sought help from his dictionary. No luck.

A utilities company provided the answer. A palnut is a sort of glorified lock washer for bolts.

GHS Invades Susquenita Tonight; Junior High To Host West Of Waynesboro

The three-way tie for first place in the second half race of the Blue Mountain League is expected to continue tonight with Gettysburg, Shippensburg and Camp Hill, tied with 2-0 records, favored to win their contests.

Merrill Eckhart's Warriors, 10-2 overall, travel to Susquenita to meet the Blackhawks. Susquenita was an easy victim here in the first half 57-30 but undoubtedly prove much tougher in their own gym.

Shippensburg is expected to have little trouble with winless Newport on the Greyhounds' court while Camp Hill, beaten only once in league play this season, should have easy sailing against Northern at Camp Hill.

Biglerville will attempt to repeat an earlier season victory when it tangles with Boiling Springs on the latter's floor while Big Spring, first half titlist, should be past East Pennsboro at Newville.

Gettysburg Junior High, sporting a 4-1 mark, will be home tonight when it meets Waynesboro West. The Braves won a 39-30 decision at Waynesboro last month. The junior varsities will meet at 6:30 o'clock.

A-F CONTESTS

In the Adams-Franklin League another full schedule is on tap.

Littlestown, the lone threat to New Oxford for the Eastern Division honors, has another toughie when it meets the Cadets at Scotland. The Bolts had a four-game win streak snapped at Greencastle Tuesday and will have to be at their best to upset the Cadets.

New Oxford, with a three-game lead over Littlestown, appears likely to strengthen its grip on the top spot at the expense of Fairfield in their clash on the Colonials' floor.

Completing the A-F program tonight will be Bermudian at Quincy, Greencastle at James Buchanan, and St. Thomas at Fannet-Metal.

Delone of McSherrystown meets Biship McDevitt at Harrisburg while York Catholic plays at Lebanon Catholic. Other teams are not scheduled.

'FRISCO GIANTS FAIL TO SIGN PUERTO RICAN

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

First baseman Orlando Cepeda and the National League pennant-winning San Francisco Giants are not seeing eye-to-eye.

The big slugger thought he had eye trouble a few months ago after he failed a driver's test. But a specialist examined him, and said that Cepeda had 20-20 vision in his right eye despite a tiny cataract.

Cepeda got a clean bill of health for his eyes, and he and the Giants heaved a collective sigh of relief.

RETURNS CONTRACT

The San Francisco front office found out today that the Puerto Rican star has no difficulty reading the small print. Cepeda took one look at the salary figure the Giants offered him for 1963 and returned his contract unsigned.

Indications are he was not offered a boost over the estimated $46,500 he was paid last year, but the Giants, as is baseball custom, won't talk about terms.

The 25-year-old right-handed swinger led the league in homers and runs batted in the season before last and was hitting at a .350 clip last June before he suddenly went into a tailspin. He finished the season at .306 average with 35 home runs and 114 RBI.

Cepeda joins a growing list of discontented Giants. Pitchers Jack Sanford and Juan Marichal and outfielder Felipe Alou have rejected their first contract offers, despite reported pay boosts for all three.

WISMER FILES SLANDER SUIT IN TITAN DEAL

BOSTON (AP)—A $2.5 million slander suit has been filed by Harry Wismer and the New York Titans of the American Football League against Theodore A. (Ted) Barron of Newton and Harold Brown of Newton, Barron's counsel.

The suit charges fraud and misrepresentation in efforts by Barron, a Boston businessman, to buy the Titans. The suit was filed in U.S. District Court Thursday.

A spokesman for Barron and Brown said they welcome the opportunity to present their case in court. He added they are contemplating action for a possible counter suit.

"PRECURIOUS SPOT"

Wismer set forth he owns 80 per cent in the Titans.

The suit charges the defendants, representing a group of industrialists, backed down on a deal to buy the Titans for a $1.7 million.

In the suit, Wismer said he expressed a willingness to sell the football club before Jan. 25, 1963, and Barron and Brown expressed a willingness to buy.

Wismer charges Brown and Barron backed out and that slanderous statements were made by the defendants to the effect that: The Titans were in a precarious franchise situation that there was a heavy debt, and that there was involvement with American Football League headquarters.

Road Crew Joins In National Anthem

CINCINNATI (AP)—At a flag-raising ceremony during the opening of the new Pleasant Run Elementary School, the Star-Spangled Banner was played. Youngsters and Legionnaires from the Mount Healthy Post stood at attention.

They weren't alone. A Hamilton County road crew, working nearby, lined up to a man at the curbing and stood at attention with bright yellow helmets held over their hearts.

Westminster Will Be Big Test For Bullets Tonight

After a horrendous shooting performance against Franklin and Marshall at Lancaster Wednesday when their seven-game winning streak was snapped, the Gettysburg College varsity cagers (9-3) hope to do an about-face here tonight when they meet Westminster College of New Wilmington, Pa., ranked fourth nationally among small college teams.

The Titans bring a 7-3 record here, their losses being to such powers as Pittsburgh, St. Francis and Wittenberg. Victories were gained over Alliance, Grove City, St. Vincent, Geneva, Malone, Carnegie Tech and Waynesburg.

Captain Warren Sallade 6-3 leads Westminster in scoring with 156 points for a 15.6 average. Bob Cravetz 6-4½ has a 12.5 average, Lou Skurcenski 6-6 is 12.4, Jack Lockwood 6-1 is 11.9 and Dave Schrecengost 6-2 has an 11.8 average. Skurcenski is the leading rebounder with a total of 106.

Last year Westminster had a 26-3 record, winning the state NAIA title, finishing second in the NAIA national tourney, and was named by two wire services as the nation's top small college squad.

The 6:45 preliminary game pits the Bullet Freshmen, 8-1, against York Junior College.

NEGRO COACH FEARS LOSS OF GRID PLAYERS

By BEN FUNK

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—White colleges searching for Negro athletic talent are closing on on Jake Gaither of Florida A&M, the nation's most celebrated Negro football coach.

The latest bad news to afflict Jake's ears was a report that Wake Forest will begin actively recruiting Negro athletes, and another that Maryland will play a Negro halfback next season.

"This concerns me a great deal," Gaither moaned. "They can take my boys, but I can't take theirs. I know a lot of good white players I would like to have on my team."

LOSING GRIP

He wasn't surprised, though. Gaither has had a beautiful lock on Florida's Negro high school talent, but lately he has felt it gradually slipping.

But the distinguished coach, whose teams have been perennial contenders for the national Negro championship, feels that the top Negro schools will continue to do all right, because they offer advantages a colored boy can't get in the big white schools.

"Here, they find a better social life and more satisfying comradeship," he said.

Gaither expects the competition for Negro players to grow more severe.

IN PRO RANKS

A dozen of Gaither's boys are playing in pro ranks.

On the attractive Florida A&M campus, Jake has developed teams that have been fast, colorful and exciting.

"You take a hound dog," Gaither once said, "and tie him up on Friday morning, and don't give him anything to eat. Then on Saturday, you untie him and pour kerosene on his tail. That's the kind of speed I get from my boys."

Rudolph Suspends 2, Fines EBL Player

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP) — In a get-tough policy, president Harry Rudolph of the Eastern Basketball League has fined and suspended an official scorer, barred a public address announcer and fined a player.

Harold Simon was fined $150 and suspended an official scorer for the Trenton, N.J., club for the balance of the season, Rudolph announced Thursday night.

Simon was fined $25 for disorderly conduct Jan. 21 after being arrested by Camden, N.J., police in a squabble with officials during the Trenton-Camden game Jan. 20.

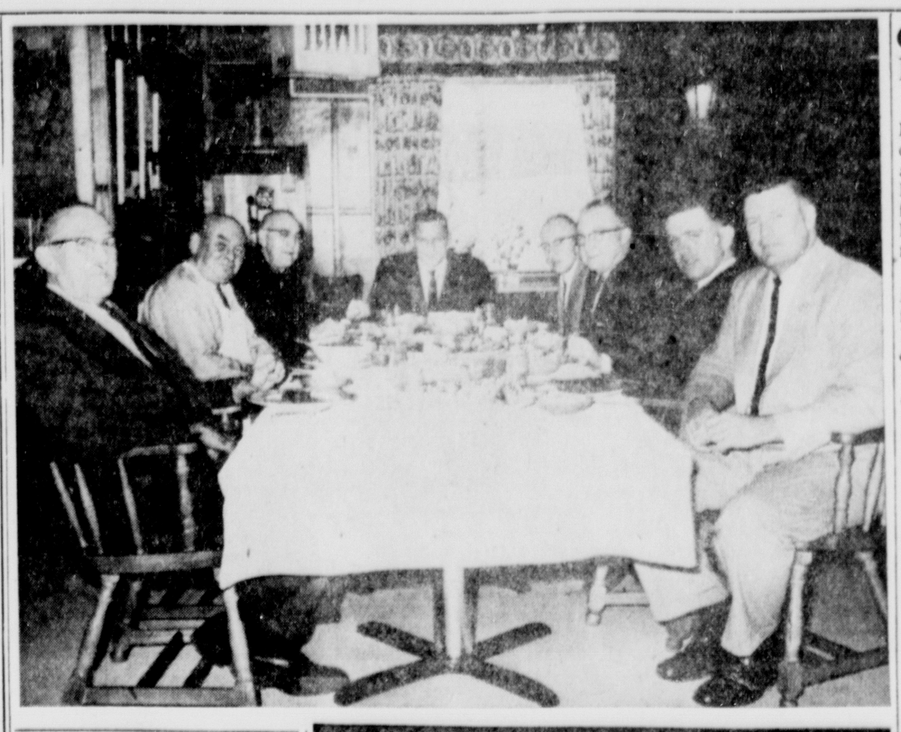

Rudolph barred John Kimock indefinitely as public address announcer for league games at Allentown for what the president termed continued actions detrimental to the league.

Andy Johnson of the Allentown Jets was fined $25 for punching Scranton's Bill Spivey in a game at Allentown last Saturday.

Only new record set at Chicago thoroughbred race tracks last summer was made by Prove It. Rex C. Ellsworth's colt covered one mile and a quarter in 2:00.4 on August 18 at Arlington Park.

NICKLAUS AND PLAYER LEAD IN 3RD ROUND

By JIM BACON

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player, with hot putters, were one-two today as the $50,000 Palm Springs golf classic went into its third round.

Arnold Palmer, the other member of golf's big three, was eight strokes behind and feeling mighty low about the whole thing.

Nicklaus, at 23 the youngest National Open champion since Bobby Jones, fashioned seven birdies—five of them on the back nine—for a 35-31 on the tough Tamarisk course, one of four layouts in the 90-hole event. Thursday's 66 paired with an opening 69, made him the solo leader at 135.

PALMER SHOOTS PAR

Player with a 67-69 was one strike behind as was young Bob Shave Jr., Willoughby, Ohio, who had identical two-day cards. Both played Tamarisk.

Palmer, still playing well off the tee but scrambling on the greens, shot a par 72 at Tamarisk. That with his opening 71 put him in a horde of 143 shooters.

"My putting is awful, just awful," moaned Palmer, a two-time winner of the classic.

NO NEAR MISSES

Harold Kneece, first round co-leader, shot a 7 Thursday to go with his 66 opener to tie for third with 137. Johnny Pott (67-68) and Tommy Aaron (68-69) were in the same bracket.

There were no near misses reported for the $50,000-added prize for a hole-in-one, which must be made over four selected holes, the shortest of which is 217 yards.

"POGO" PLAYER LEADS ARIZONA TO NCAA RANK

By BOB EGER

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP)—Joe Caldwell, a 6-foot-5 junior with a lot of bounce-to-the-ounce, is a major reason Arizona State University enjoys the No. 5 ranking among the nation's basketball teams.

Caldwell's teammates have nicknamed the former Los Angeles Fremont High player Pogo. One look at him bouncing up for a rebound and the reason is obvious.

TRACK STAR

He's a 6-7 high jumper in track.

Caldwell's averaging 20 points and 10 rebounds a game and has turned in some defensive work that left opponents shaking in their sneakers.

They have found its no fun to start a jump shot and suddenly find the ball neatly blocked or stolen.

Caldwell also has a burning ambition. He wants to play professional basketball.

"I want to make the pros so I can afford to move my parents out of Texas and out to the West Coast," the Negro star said. A number of his relatives live in Los Angeles.

TEAM TO BEAT

Of the National Collegiate basketball scene, Caldwell agrees that Cincinnati is the team to beat. However he says the Sun Devils are just as eager for a shot at second-ranked Loyola.

"Those guys (Loyola) play our type of ball. It would be a great game because we're one team that can run with them."

Does he think the Sun Devils have a chance of playing either of the two this season?

"If they make it to the (NCAA) finals, we'll be there waiting for them," he said.

Celtics, Lakers Move Near Titles

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The rich get richer in the National Basketball Association as the division-leading Boston Celtics and the Los Angeles Lakers go streaking toward wrapping up the Eastern and Western titles.

The Celts rallied in the final minutes and edged the Cincinnati Royals 128-125 Thursday night while the Lakers also came from behind and turned back the Detroit Pistons 127-122.

The victories were the sixth straight for both Boston and Los Angeles. The Celtics lead the Eastern Division by 8½ games and the Lakers hold a nine-game bulge in the West.

In other games Thursday night, the Chicago Zephyrs posted their first victory ever on the Syracuse court in whipping the New York Knicks 116-101. The Nats edged the St. Louis Hawks 112-110 in the windup of a doubleheader.

ROZELLE NOT BUDGING ON PROBE FACTS

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the National Football League refuses to yield to heavy pressure for a quick announcement on the pro football gambling probe and maintains he must wait until all available facts have been assembled.

The NFL's annual winter meetings ended Thursday but there still was no indication when Rozelle would make a report. Will it be two weeks, a month? Or when?

MUST BE COMPLETE

"I can't say," said Rozelle in answer to reporters' questions. "We realize the importance of speed but this must be complete. I have to say, just as I have been saying since Jan. 4 when the first stories of the investigation were printed, certain allegations have been made involving a number of people. Our investigation to date has developed no indication of acts of a criminal nature."

As the owners ended their business sessions there appeared to be concern, but not panic, about the situation and the parallel preliminary probe by the Senate Investigating subcommittee headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark.

The investigation was revealed Jan. 4 when Rozelle was asked by owner-coach George Halas of the Chicago Bears to check into whispered rumors of a betting scandal.

DRAKE GIVES CINCINNATI WORST SCARE

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Drake, loser of eight games so far this season, came within one lone free throw of pulling the upset of the college basketball season Thursday night in a superlative effort against unbeaten Cincinnati.

But when it was all over, the mighty Bearcats had escaped with a 65-60 overtime triumph, keeping their 34-game winning string intact and retaining a strong hold on their first in the nation rating.

Loyola of Chicago and Niagara, the only other major unbeaten teams in the country, had much less trouble in stretching their strings. Loyola, ranked second in the nation, crushed Washington of St. Louis 118-58 for its 19 straight, and Niagara beat Georgetown, of Washington, D.C., 89-75 for its 10th straight.

TOUGHEST FOR BEARCATS

Wake Forest beat South Carolina 54-45 in a key Atlantic Coast Conference game, Kentucky held off Georgia 74-67, and in a Madison Square Garden doubleheader Bowling Green defeated St. John's, N.Y., 63-55 and Providence ripped Dayton 84-72.

Cincinnati's scare against Drake was the Bearcats' toughest game of the season. Their previous closest games this season were a six-point triumph over Bradley and a seven-point edge over Dayton.

The Bearcats, winners of 16 straight this season, trailed much of the way and came from behind to tie it 58-58 on two free throws by Tom Thacker with 2:17 left in regulation time. There was no further scoring until the overtime.

The lead changed hands 11 times before Thacker's two free throws tied it for the last time. He missed a free throw that could have won it with 5 seconds left, and also was wide on a following shot.

In other major action, Rutgers broke a five-game losing string with a 90-83 victory over Lafayette, St. Louis beat Marquette 73-62, Utah State coasted to a 97-69 triumph over Utah, and Tulsa fought off Arkansas 68-66.

Chicago's Black Hawks In Easy Win

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago's Bobby Hull, though slowed by a charley horse, scored three goals and two assists in a 9-2 National Hockey League victory by the first-place Black Hawks over the last-place Boston Bruins Thursday night.

Toronto's Red Kelly also turned in three goals as the Leafs came from behind and whipped the Montreal Canadiens 6-3 in the only other game played.

The victory left Toronto in undisputed possession of second place, two points behind Chicago. The Leafs and Montreal had been tied for second before the game.

JAP BASEBALL PLAYER GIVEN SEAWEED GIFT

By BOB SALMON
Associated Press Sports Writer

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Okay, Mickey Mantle, so you hit a flock of home runs last year. But when's the last time you got a gift box of seaweed?

Which may be a rather diverse way of getting into a story about a Japanese baseball player, at that.

Japanese baseball—which ranks just below being emperor as an occupation in the minds of Nipponese fans—features such stars as Koiyama, Nagashima, Muriyama, McManus.

FROM BROOKLINE

No, that wasn't an Irish linotype operator sneaking in with the name McManus. One of the leading players in Japanese baseball is 26-year-old Jim McManus of Brookline, who got tired of bouncing around American minor leagues a year ago with Detroit and Kansas City.

After one season as first baseman with one of Japan's top teams, the Taiyo Whales, McManus—or "Macu" as he's called by Japanese players—wouldn't trade his job for Ford Frick's.

"I just couldn't do anywhere near as well playing baseball in the United States," the 6-foot-3, 223-pound slugger said today while preparing to return for spring training.

WELL TREATED

"Not financially or any other way."

Jim, his pretty wife, Diane, and their son, Brian, 2, were provided with a six-room house, a fine salary and an interpreter. McManus went on to his 14 home runs, drive in 62 runs and bat .278 while playing only half the 130-game schedule.

Asked about the seaweed, Jim chuckled. "It's customary in Japan for a person to bring a present when visiting someone. This carries over to baseball, which is fantastically popular over there.

"So when a player has a good game or hits a home run or such, a fan—or even a writer—will bring a present when he talks to him. One day I was presented with a nice box full of seaweed. To the Japanese that's a delicacy."

TRACK HEADS PONDER TRUCE

NEW YORK (AP)—Representatives of the Amateur Athletic Union and the U.S. Track and Field Federation will sit down here today to try to smooth out a disagreement over dual sanctioning that threatens the truce arbitrated less than two weeks ago by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

In dispute is whether the college-supported federation is entitled under the peace pact to sanction the appearance of high school, junior college and college athletes in open meets already carrying AAU sanction.

The AAU says the MacArthur agreement specifies clearly that the AAU is the official sanctioning agent for all open meets. The federation grants an AAU sanction is necessary for open competitors but feels its own sanction is also permissible to cover enrolled students participating in the meet.

The crack in the new agreement, reached Jan. 19 at the urging of President Kennedy, developed after the federation asked what amounted to dual sanctioning of the Boston A. A. meet last Saturday night.

HURLERS LIKE EXPANSION OF STRIKE ZONE

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — As expected, the baseball rules committee's recent action in liberalizing the strike zone has brought sighs of relief from the pitchers and yelps from the hitters.

"It's about time they got around to doing something for the pitchers," said Los Angeles pitching ace Don Drysdale, who probably was happier signing a $46,000 Dodger contract.

"I'm glad they did it although I don't think it will affect me any. The new rule is more apt to help a pitcher like Sandy Koufax, who can really buzz that high hard one."

ENLARGES AREA

The new strike zone—from the top of the shoulders to the knees instead of from the armpits to the top of the knees, is expected to enlarge that area by 10 inches, according to the estimate of Cal Hubbard, American League umpire-in-chief.

Slugger Frank Robinson of the Cincinnati Reds doesn't like the new rule at all.

"I've been in this game for nine years," he said, "and in all that time I've been trying to teach myself to lay off that high pitch on the shoulders because it's not a strike and it's a bad pitch to hit. Now, if I let it go, it will be a strike."

FEARS STRIKEOUT

Mickey Mantle, who cut down his strikeout total appreciably last year, is another concerned over the rule change.

"I'll probably strike out 400 times next season," he muttered.

The Yankee switchhitter fanned only 78 times in 123 games, marking one of the few times his strikeout total dipped below the century mark.

Club officials, including field managers and general managers, are virtually unanimously in favor of the new high strike rule.

"It's a great move," observed Bobby Bragan, the new manager of the Milwaukee Braves. "It will not only speed up the game but make it more interesting."

ber districts are paying $98,500 annually toward reduction of the debt and interest payments on the bonds.

Already filled to its rated capacity of 650 pupils, the new structure has eight regular classrooms, a fully-equipped vocational home economics room, graphic arts shop, drafting room, agriculture shop and classroom, a library, four business education rooms, four science laboratory-classrooms, a music room, gymnasium, guidance office, main office and a faculty study and conference room in addition to the cafetorium and kitchen.

The cafetorium was taxed almost to capacity by Thursday evening's crowd of 396. The speaker's table was placed on the stage at its east end so that all of the dining space possible would be available. Two serving lines supplied the dinner platters rapidly.

INTERCOM SYSTEM

After the meal, sliding doors were closed to seal off kitchen noises from the dining area. The stage in the cafetorium provides storage space for band uniforms. There is a piano on the platform and a speaker's rostrum.

An intercommunication system links all of the building's units and reaches into every classroom. All of the rooms are wired for either closed circuit or commercial television. Science, mathematics and language rooms have television receiving sets as part of the regular classroom equipment.

Two automatic gas-fired boilers provide heat for the building and they are equipped with standby oil units in event of emergency. The heat system is zoned and thermostatically controlled in each room. All rooms are equipped with fresh air units for ventilation.

ACOUSTICAL CEILINGS

There are three rest rooms for males and three for females in the building plus toilet facilities in the gymnasium dressing rooms.

All hall and classroom ceilings are of acoustical tile. The central portion of the cafetorium is plastered to provide maximum acoustical properties and the stair well ceilings are plastered. All office and classroom floors are vinyl asbestos tile while the floors of the corridors, rest rooms and cafetorium are terrazzo.

Both natural and fluorescent lighting is used in all classrooms. The classroom windows have venetian shades which can cut down sun glare or serve as blackout blinds when audio-visual aids are being used in the classroom.

SPECIAL HEALTH UNIT

The classrooms are equipped with fiberglass seat desks with the most modern writing surfaces. Blackboard and bulletin board space is provided in each classroom according to the needs there.

A hall locker is provided for each student with special compartments for coats, hats and books.

In the efficiently-planned health unit there is space for medical, dental, sight and hearing examinations and there is a recovery unit for pupils who are taken ill in school.

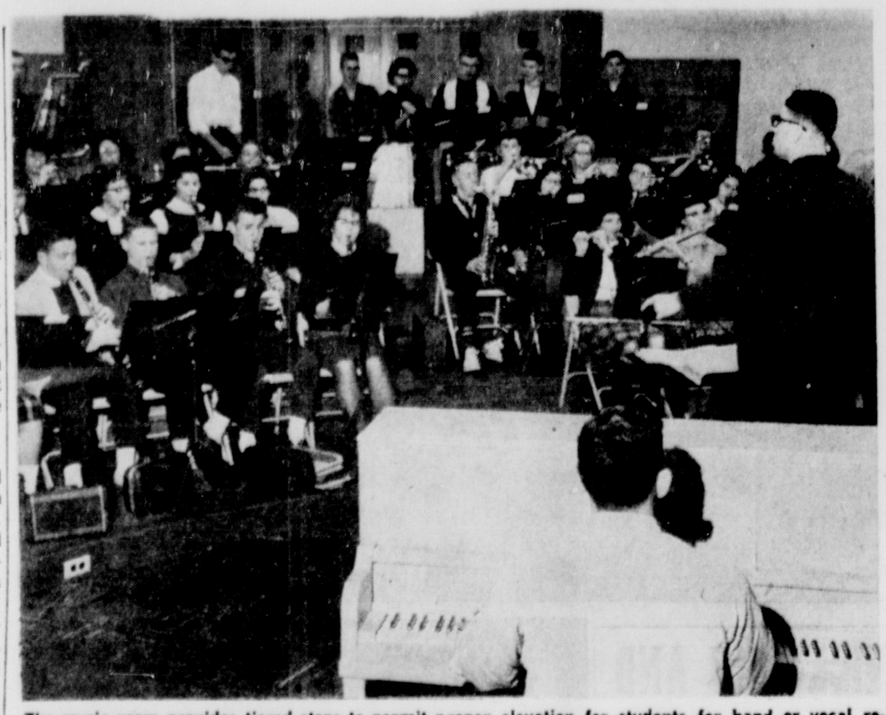

During Thursday evening's tour, the visitors found several classrooms in use by adult evening classe which are in their second semester with a total enrollment of more than 150.

TOOK FIVE YEARS

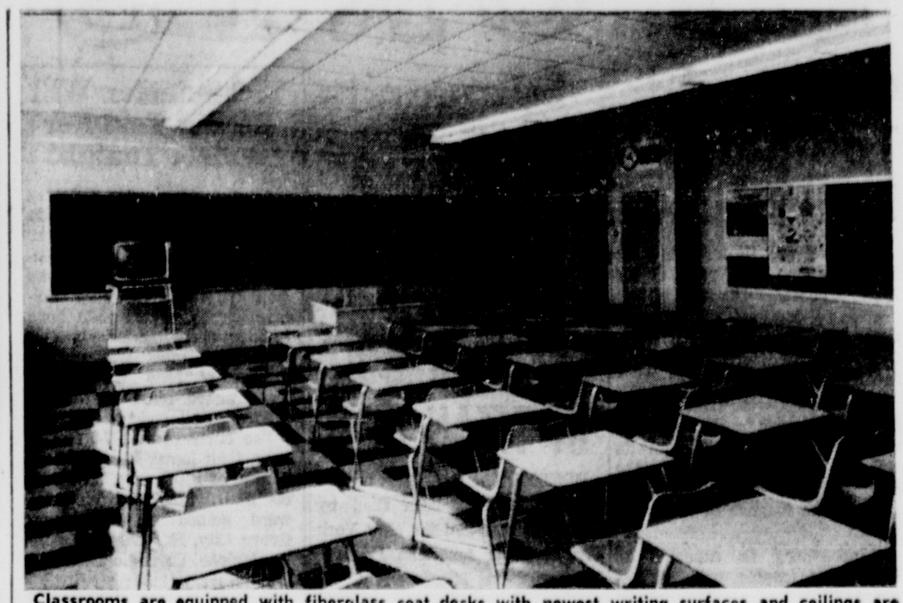

The brochures distributed in connection with the public inspection show that planning for the new building began almost exactly five years before the date it was placed in use. In November, 1957, the superintendent of schools, H. Edgar Rigle, presented projected high school enrollment figures that showed the urgent need for more space. By the spring of 1960 the firm of J. Alfred Hamme and Associates of York had been chosen as the architect and a year later the state gave final approval to the room schedule. Construction work started October 10, 1961, and the building was occupied November 30, 1962, a month ahead of schedule.

Copies of the current issue of the school newspaper, the Maroon and White were distributed to directors Thursday evening after the dinner and the tour included a visit to the room which serves as headquarters for the school publication with Mrs. Margaret P. Deitz serving as faculty advisor.

The general contract for the building was awarded to A. B. Seifert and Sons, Inc. York. Diller Wierman, Inc., Hanover, did the heating and plumbing and Hull's Electric Service of Gettysburg the electrical work.

The music room provides tiered steps to permit proper elevation for students for band or vocal rehearsals. It is equipped with a piano and storage space for instruments. Three practice rooms and an office comprise the music section.

Classrooms are equipped with fiberglass seat desks with newest writing surfaces and ceilings are lined with acoustical tile, as shown above. Floors are covered with vinyl asbestos tile. Blackboard and bulletin board space is provided according to individual classroom demands.

Planning For New Building Began Five Years Before Its Completion

CENTENNIAL OF RED CROSS TO BE MARKED

In 1963, the Adams County Chapter, American Red Cross, joins with 87 other Red Cross, Red Crescent and Red Lion and Sun societies around the world in celebrating the centenary of the formation of the world-wide Red Cross movement in Geneva, Switzerland, C. P. Keefer, county chapter chairman, said today.

Quoting from a centenary message by E. Roland Harriman, chairman of the American National Red Cross, Mr. Keefer said: "In every nation, men of every race, religion, and political persuasion will honor the organization that, conceived amidst the horror of war, has gone on to greater glory in bringing relief to millions in time of peace."

TWO BASIC IDEALS

"For the last 100 years, the two ideals basic to the Red Cross movement—preservation of human dignity and the prevention of suffering — have spread until they now are embraced by the citizens and governments of nearly every country."

In his centenary message to the 88 member-societies of the League of Red Cross Societies, John A. MacAulay (of Canada), chairman of the League's board of governors, stated, "People of all nationalities, races and creeds have been given life and hope through the humanitarian services of the Red Cross."

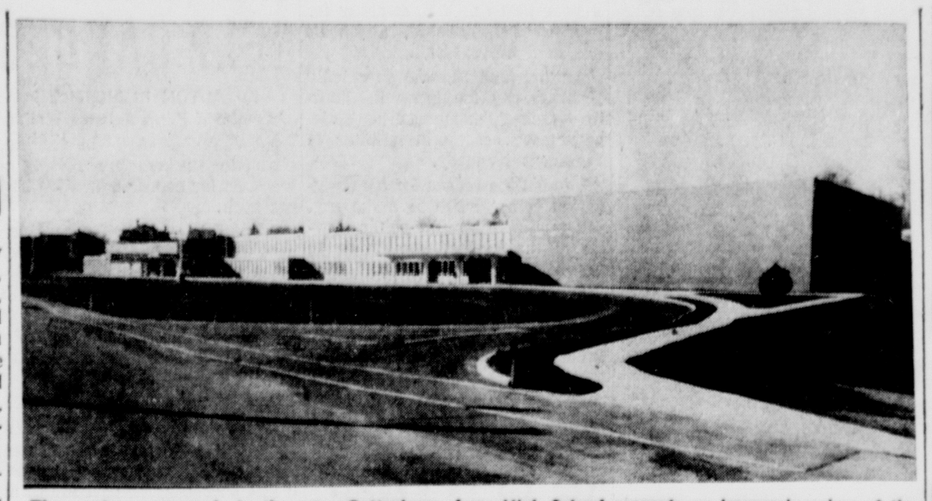

The basic Red Cross ideals, Mr. Harriman pointed out, were first expressed by Henri Dunant, a young Swiss businessman. Shocked by the sight of thousands of wounded he found untended in the wake of the Battle of Solferino, Italy, in 1859, Dunant described his experiences in a book that was published three years later.

PLAN EXHIBITION

His book also called for the formation of volunteer relief societies backed by "some international principle . . . sanctioned by a convention inviolate in character" to care for the wounded in wartime.

Geneva, Switzerland, will be the focal center of the Red Cross centenary celebration. It is the location of the International Committee of the Red Cross, the all-Swiss group that serves as guardian of the principles of the Geneva Conventions and acts as the neutral intermediary between the opposed parties in war, civil war, or other international disturbances. The ICRC along with the League and the national Red Cross groups cooperate in conducting numerous international health, safety, and emergency relief projects.

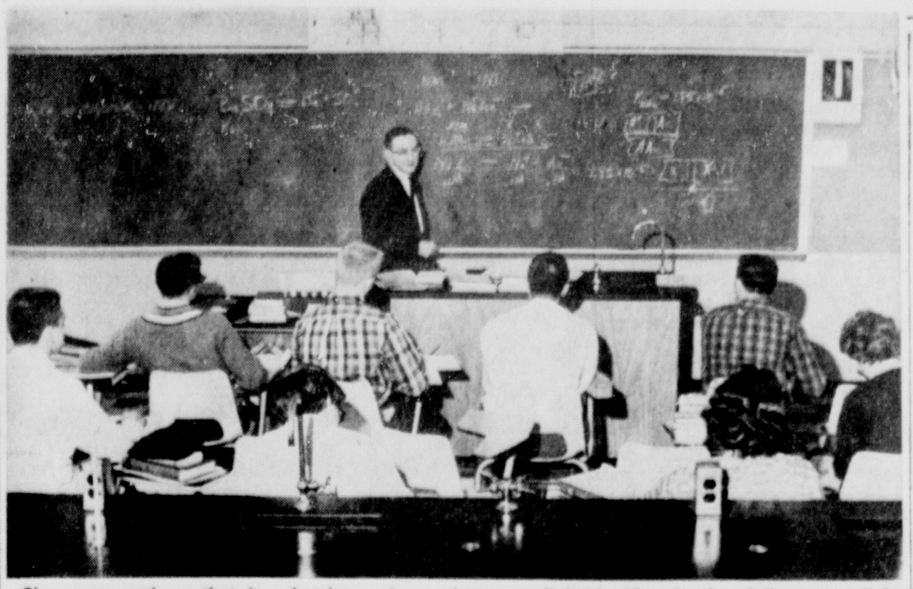

The celebrations in Switzerland will run from August 15 to September 15, Mr. Harriman said. They will include an International Red Cross Exhibition, two weeks of conferences and courses on Red Cross activities, and the Centenary Commemorative Day on September 1.

The eastern approach to the new Gettysburg Area High School presents an impressive view of the $1,469,000 structure, located about 150 yards from the present high school building off Baltimore St. The building has eight regular classrooms, an arts and craft room, library, vocational education rooms, laboratories, commercial rooms, student activity, music and health rooms, a cafetorium and kitchen, gymnasium, guidance office, main office and faculty study.

Above is the main entrance to the new Gettysburg Area High School, where an open house will be held Sunday afternoon. Construction was started October 10, 1961, and the building was completed November 30, 1962.

Classrooms such as that for chemistry, shown above, are lighted with natural and fluorescent light. The windows are covered with Venetian shades to avoid glare and to close out light for visual-aid instruction. An intercommunication system links all educational space and all rooms are wired for closed circuit or commercial television. The science, mathematics and language rooms have television sets as part of classroom equipment.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

Cicada, a standout 3-year-old filly in 1962, is a granddaughter of Hildene, dam of First Landing, Hill Prince, Third Brother, Mangohick and Prince Hill.

George D. Widener, owner of Jaipur and Crewman, had his most successful turf year in 1962. His stable earned $973,051, second best figure for the year.

NEW STORMS LASH EUROPE

LONDON (AP)—Winter storms lashed back over much of Europe Thursday, burying hopes of a long-awaited thaw beneath a fresh crust of ice and snow.

The returning cold wave brought Rome its heaviest snow in seven years. The icy coating was only half an inch in Rome and half a foot in the surrounding hills. But it tied traffic in knots and more than 200 persons were hospitalized as a result of falls.

Slight earth tremors also were felt in northern Italy, but no damage was reported.

At Ancona, half way up the Adriatic coast, the weight of snow collapsed scores of farmhouse roofs, killing sheep and livestock. Schools were closed.

Europe's death toll from the freeze approached 440 and of these fatalities 114 were in Italy.

In West Germany temperatures dived to 4 degrees, but the Rhine was kept open to shipping from Wiesbaden to the Dutch border.

BEEF CATTLE INDUSTRY MAY NEED U.S. AID

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's beef cattle industry will have a tough time in the months ahead trying to maintain a favorable degree of price stability. The situation may even raise the specter of possible government assistance.

The industry has long opposed federal production controls, price supports or other intervention. It was among the leaders in the opposition to a broad farm control program advanced by President Kennedy in 1961, but rejected by Congress.

Cattlemen have been enjoying relatively favorable prices for some time, reflecting heavy consumer demand for beef and reduced supplies, at times, of pork.

But a big buildup of cattle on feed for fattening for the quality slaughter market has raised a threat of a big increase in slaughter supplies during the late winter and early springs. This could bring a drop in prices that would have wide repercussions—including the possibility that proponents might again raise the issue of federal controls.

C. W. McMillan, of Denver, Colo., executive vice president of the American National Cattlemen's Association, is urging cattlemen to employ what he calls orderly marketing and finishing of cattle. This would mean marketing at lighter and more desirable weights most demanded by slaughterers and consumers.

Marketing at lighter weights would tend to hold down the total tonnage—a fact that would offset in part the price depressing effect of the sharp increase in cattle on feed. He said cattlemen must show that they do not have short memories — that is forget past price depressions growing out of a large seasonal increase in beef tonnage.

Another factor that is expected to weaken the price foundation for beef cattle is the prospect of a larger supply of competing pork this year.

A Lovelier You

FASHION WITH COMFORT. In wearing nylon support hose many women have found comfort for legs that tire easily. And many more could find ease, if they did not shy away from the idea of a support stocking.

The main deterrents seem to be the cost and the clinical aspect. The latter objection harks back to the days when elastic stockings were designed solely for women with medical problems. Now even fashion-conscious models find support nylons sufficiently sheer for public view.

As sheer as such stockings are, they are reasonably sturdy and give good service. It makes sense, of course, to give them the best possible care.

Like any nylon, they should be washed before the first wearing. This renders them flexible, and so less vulnerable to strains. After every wearing, they should be laundered as soon as possible, in plenty of warm suds followed by several rinses.

To avoid the snag hazard, wear a pair of mitts designed expressly for this purpose or use a hosiery "washer." Both gadgets can be found at notion counters and at little cost.

A newsy washer is made of plastic foam, resembles a miniature washing machine, and holds two pairs of stockings. To use it you insert the stockings and swish the gadget through suds and rinses, and then press out excess moisture. Look ma, no hands!

DIOR PRESENTS SLENDER LINE SILHOUETTE

By LUCIE NOEL

PARIS (AP) — The House of Christian Dior presented a new slender line silhouette Thursday, with sheaths streamlined from neckline to hemline. Bosoms were flattened throughout.

The sheath dresses often were without belts. Necklines were built up for daytime, close to the throat. There were shirred halters for evening.

Designer Marc Bohan featured kimono sleeves, with the armholes down to the waist and draped. This sleeve style appeared in every type of dress, on jackets and on coats.

The simplicity of the line was relieved by rich fabrics with texture interest.

OPEN JACKETS

In suits, jackets never close. They show a starched linen bib, blouse or T-shirt, always left plain. Detailing includes buttoned tabs, particularly in a group of clothes designed especially for U.S. and Mexican wear.

A third of the evening dresses were richly beaded or studded with rhinestones.

Bohan was given an ovation for his new tapered silhouette.

The collection opened with springtime, a black and white check tweed suit with a slender open jacket fitting snugly through the figure and leaving a wide space for the starched linen modesty bib.

PUFFED SLEEVES

The sleeves at the shoulders of all suits are slightly puffed, skirts are slim, or in younger suits kilted or deeply pleated.

Soon afterward came Bohan's second idea—the armhole cut down to the waist and a wide kimono sleeve folding back on itself at varied lengths. This first steps forth in a blue-jacketed suit with a red top, then appears in a gray wool two-piece for Paris. Next it came in an all-red two-piece midy suit and finally in black for cocktails.

Next in importance came the great number of tapered dresses. They are actually snug-fitted chemise dresses with subtle hemline interest as a tiny bubble puff in the back, which is developed in some evening sheaths to a large puff.

HALTER NECK

Necks are close to the throat while for evening the shirred halter neck is favored, occasionally developing into a full swatched scarf or stoled line.

The tapered slender silhouette has a subtitle: Dior calls them "cylinder dresses," for they are tubular. They are shown in tailored wool, new silk and wool and orlon weaves, new staron mixtures and anything that has body, including shantung. These sheaths are often completed by short square jackets with wide-open revers, occasional rolled collars and occasional squared-off revers.

U.S. Attorney To Resign Post

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Joseph S. Ammerman is leaving his $17,500 a year post as U. S. attorney for western Pennsylvania, a job he has held since 1961.

Ammerman, 38, who reportedly plans to run for judge in Clearfield County, announced his resignation Wednesday in a letter to President Kennedy.

He said the reason for his resignation is a "desire to make myself available for full public service of the highest importance to my home county of Clearfield."

A temporary replacement will be named by U. S. District Court judges until President Kennedy names a successor, Ammerman said.

TWO CHILDREN DIE IN FLAMES; MOTHER AWAY

CLYMER, Pa. (AP)—Two children of pre-school age, alone in their home, were killed Wednesday in a fire which wrecked the interior of the two-story brick dwelling in this Indiana County community.

One-year-old Kathryn Clawson and her two-year-old brother, Eugene, died of asphyxiation and second and third degree burns of the body, Deputy Coroner William Evans said.

The children's father, Walter, was in town when the fire broke out. Their mother was at a neighbor's getting two other sons, Walter, 6, and Charles, 4.

CHILDREN SLEEPING

The neighbor, Mrs. Glenn Peace, said:

"She (Mrs. Clawson) came to get the children for supper and said she had to hurry back home because the two younger children were asleep on the couch. She was here just a few minutes when Kathy (Ferguson, a neighbor) came running in and said, 'Mrs. Clawson, your house is on fire'."

Mrs. Clawson tried to get into her house but was beaten back by flames and smoke.

Firemen said the blaze apparently was touched off when cinders from a heating stove in the living room fell on the wooden floor, igniting the floor and a couch.

LEVY TAX ON CIGARETTES TO HELP CANCER

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—In Iceland, cigarette smokers are raising a treasury for cancer education and research.

A special tax of half a cent per pack has been levied, the money to go to the Icelandic Cancer Society. The society expects to reap about $50,000 a year, all above its current annual income of $10,000 to $20,000, says Dr. Niels Dungal, society president.

Part of the money raised when smokers smoke will go into a campaign to urge people, especially teen-agers, not to smoke. If this succeeds, the revenue from the cigarette tax will go down.

FIRST TO TAX

Iceland apparently is the first country to earmark a tax on cigarettes for such purposes, Dungal said in an interview during a visit to the United States. The tax took effect Jan. 1.

The society hopes to give regular smear tests for early detection of cancer of the cervix to all women aged 25 to 60 and to seek causes of stomach cancer.

Dungal, professor of pathology at the University of Iceland, is among those who blame cigarette smoking as a cause of lung cancer, a position challenged by some others, including the tobacco industry.

SMOKED LESS

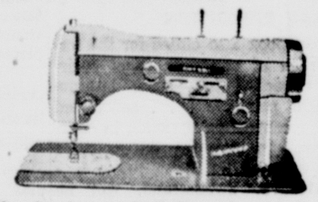

"Thirty years ago Icelanders smoked less than any nation in Europe and had practically no lung cancer," he said. "Then cigarette imports were limited to one pound of tobacco (about 450 cigarettes) per person per year and have risen to 3½ pounds (1,575 cigarettes) per person. Some do not smoke at all while others smoke one to two packages a day, and a few even more."

Lung cancer has increased to about 10 to 15 cases per year, compared with one case a year 30 years ago, Dr. Dungal said.

Virginia Military Institute has won the Southern Conference swimming championship the last five years.

"God Asks Only That We Give Him A Chance"

REV. JOHN C. CHATLOS
Pastor of Incarnation United Church of Christ, Emmitsburg, and St. James United Church of Christ, Littlestown R. 1

GIVE GOD A CHANCE

TEXT: "I have come in my Father's name, and you do not receive me." John 5:34a

These words of Jesus are some of the saddest words which He ever spoke. They remind us that He was rejected by His own people. "He came unto His own home, and His own people received Him not." (John 1:11). In Jesus Christ the agelong hope of the Jewish nation had been fulfilled, yet the Jews were so blind and prejudiced — so skilled at stopping their ears to the voice of God, that they would not recognize Him as the Christ.

These words of our text are applicable not only to the Jewish people, but to the whole human race. Jesus Christ is our Lord and our Savior. He alone can save and satisfy us. God asks only that we give Him a chance. In the lives of so many, many people today, God has never had a fair chance. One way we can give God a chance is by seriously asking ourselves three questions: (1) Who is God? (2) What is man? (3) What must I do to be saved?

SEARCHING FOR GOD

From the beginning of time, man has been searching for God. He has endeavored to find Him in nature — in the stars, the sun, the moon, in fire and in tempest, but has not really found Him. Even in our day and age there is this earnest searching for God. The ordinary man seeks a full and satisfying life. Only God can furnish that. The artist seeks new forms of beauty. Only in God is there ultimate beauty. The scientist seeks to penetrate new realms of truth through his microscope and his telescope, but only in God can he find real truth. Man can find a great deal about what God must be like from his searching and in his probing, but he cannot know God personally unless and until he permits Him to come and to make Himself known.

Two people may know about each other, but they don't come to know each other personally until they look each other in the eye, shake hands, talk together, and thus reveal the inner world of their personality and their character. So God Himself must speak to us — must come face to face with us, and must enter our personal relationships before we can know Him as He really is. If we earnestly ask the question: "Who is God?" we will be giving Him a chance in our lives.

SECOND QUESTION

A second question we might well ask ourselves is: "What is man?" Is he a fallen angel or is he an elevated chimpanzee? The answer to this question determines how a person lives. He can live either like an animal or like a child of God. The Prodigal Son lived purely for pleasure like an animal, and his final condition in the far country was the logical one for such an attitude.

If we give God a chance, we will see who we are, and the apparent meaningless piece of jigsaw puzzle will be fitted into the whole picture. When we look at Jesus Christ we see what man really is. Pilate declared more profoundly than he ever realized: "Behold the Man!" Jesus Christ is God's perfect man — not of the order of the animals — not an angel, but the Son of God destined to live in fellowship and in harmony with God.

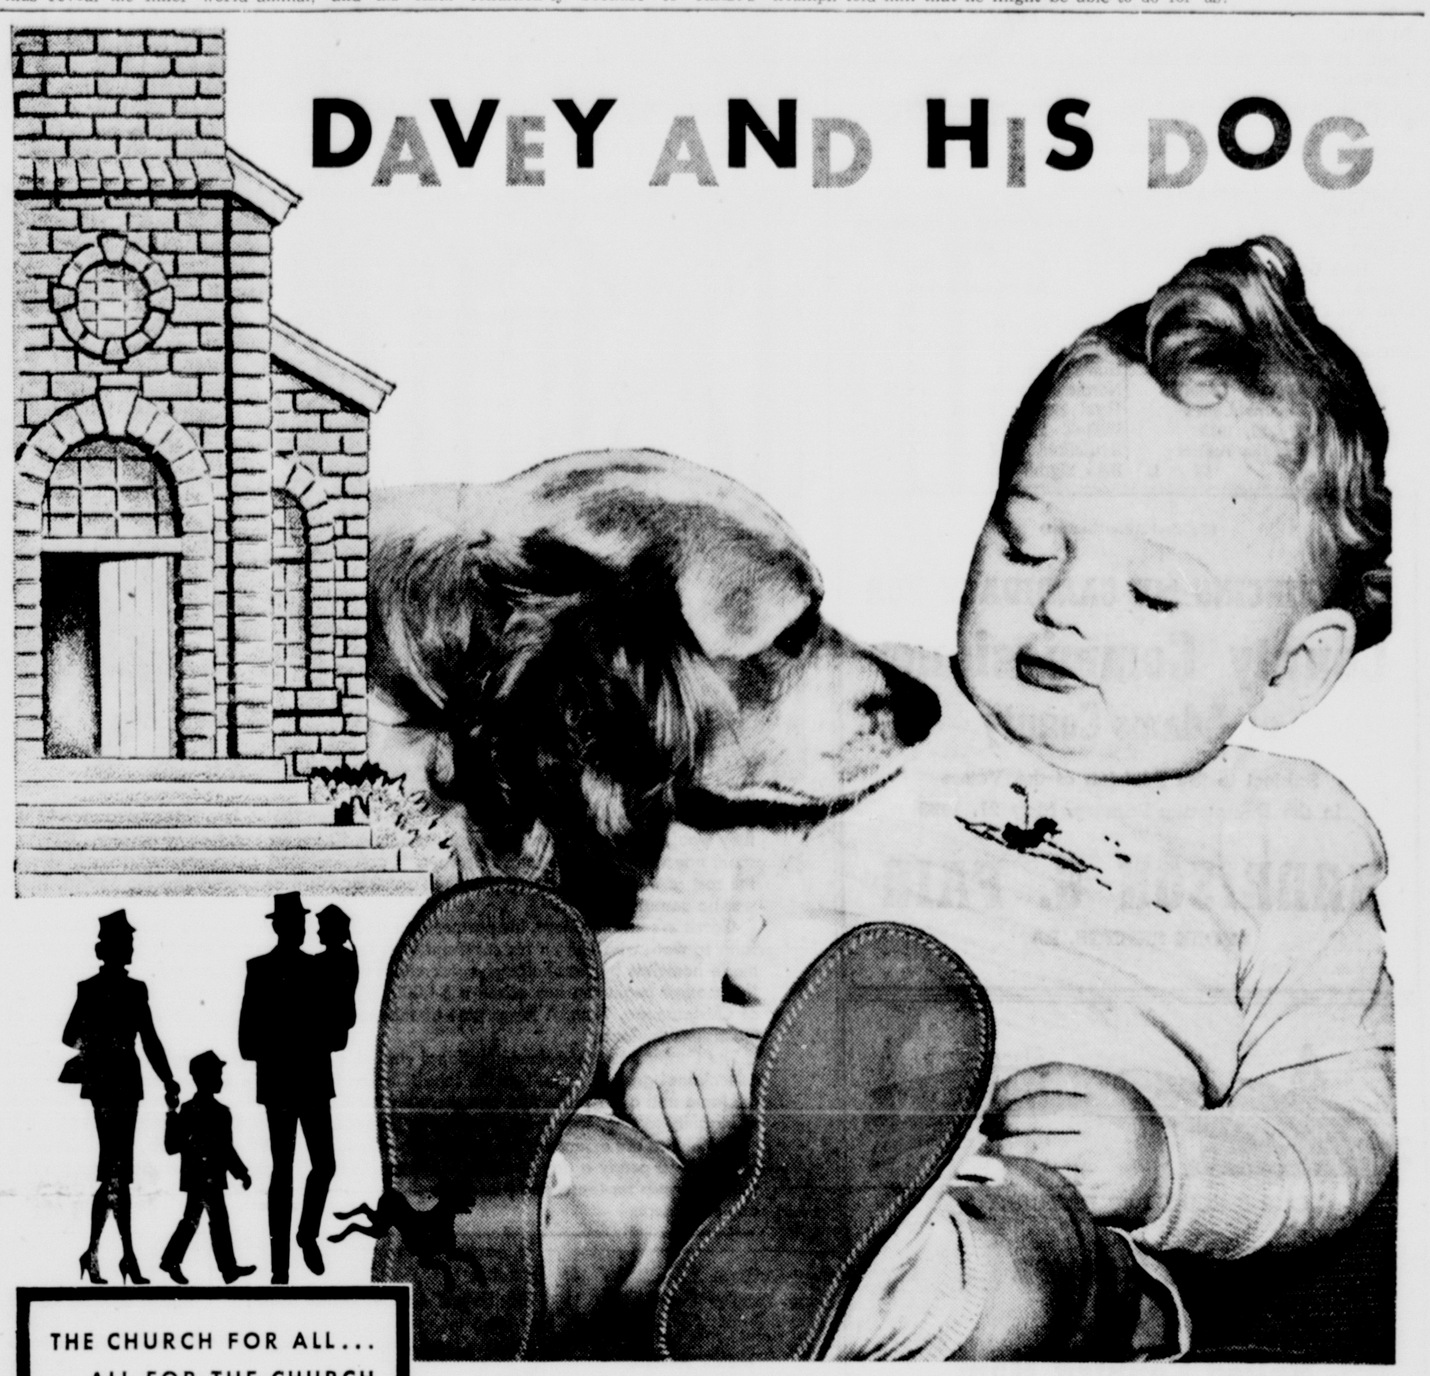

We human beings realize who we are when we look at the Cross, for it declares that God made us all and that He loved us enough to wrestle with our sins. It is only because of Christ's triumph over the powers of darkness there at Calvary that God has brought us into His family as His children. Calvary proves to us that man is much more than an elevated chimpanzee or even than a fallen angel. He is a child of God. God loved us enough to permit His only begotten Son to die for us in order that we might become His children by adoption.

HOW TO BE SAVED

A third way we can give God a chance in our lives is by asking the all-important question: "What must I do to be saved?"

A man who was once suffering from a serious disease came to a famous surgeon for help. After a careful examination, the doctor told him that he might be able to save his life, but that it would involve a long course of healing and several operations. The surgeon said: "You must place yourself entirely in my hands. Sometimes what I am doing may seem senseless to you. Sometimes it may even be painful, but only if you let me have my way can I offer you a cure." This is a perfect picture of what God is saying to sinful mankind. All of our "home remedies" for dealing with our sins have failed. God alone is able to save us, but we must let Him have His way. We must put ourselves entirely into His hands.

If you and I really and honestly give God a chance, we will be amazed at what He can and will do for us!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Our neighbor has a firm opinion about children and pets: "When a boy is old enough to assume responsibility for the care of a dog, it's time enough for him to have one."

But our Davey is growing up with his dog — his frolicking playmate today, his faithful friend and protector tomorrow.

Our neighbor has an opinion also about children and God: "When my son is able to weigh the claims of religion with a mature mind he can decide for himself whether he wants to go to Church."

What heritage would men have of Truth and Right and Freedom if each generation had not imparted its blessings to the next? It is the faith of our fathers which is ours to cherish, and to teach our children.

Let them grow up with that Christian Faith and it will have its rightful place in their lives.

The POWER of FAITH By WOODI ISHMAEL

In 1942 an accident caused a blood clot in Garrison Siskin's leg. Three surgeons told him they would have to amputate, gave him only a 50 per cent chance of recovery. Garrison spent one whole night praying. He says, "I promised God, if I recovered, I would devote the rest of my life to helping people. I consider this a contract." The leg healed. There was no amputation.

Garrison's brother Mose, his partner in a steel scrap business, was moved by Garrison's faith to work with him on his covenant with God. They started simply, helping a family made homeless by fire, helping a sick child, helping most anyone truly in need. Out of this modest beginning has arisen a $4,000,000 rehabilitation center in their home town of Chattanooga, Tenn. A large part of this has been made possible from the profits of the Siskins' business.

The Center has a non-denominational chapel, a building serving religious, cultural and educational groups, as well as the rehabilitation building. To the Center come the blind, the lame and other physically and mentally handicapped. None is turned away because of inability to pay. Thousands have been helped since the Center opened in 1955.

The Siskins are extending the scope of the Center through the 365 Club, whose members contribute a penny a day. Garrison calls the Center Operation Crossroads, because it is the crossroads for those who pass through from a life of despair and pain to one of hope and fulfillment.

U.S. CRITICISM OF CANADA MAY SPARK CALL FOR ELECTION

OTTAWA (AP) — Speculation was widespread today that U.S. government criticism of Canada's failure to arm with nuclear weapons would spark a general election call and a campaign fought on nuclear defense issues.

The U.S. State Department criticism Wednesday found Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's Conservative government already under heavy fire from opponents in the House of Commons for its hesitancy in reaching a concrete decision on nuclear warheads for its Bomarc missiles in Canada and its bombers flying for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Europe.

The Social Credit party leader, Robert Thompson, called the American statement "a bombshell to say the least—it could be the spark to topple the government."

PEARSON SURPRISED

Lester B. Pearson, chief of the Liberals, the biggest opposition party, said he found it surprising that the United States should issue such a statement. But he blamed it on what he said were conflicting versions of defense policy given by Diefenbaker and Defense Minister Douglas Harkness in the Commons debate last week.

T. C. Douglas, leader of the New Democratic party, said he was shocked by the U.S. statement and demanded an emergency debate in Commons.

Diefenbaker's Conservative party lost its majority in Commons in the general election last June, winning 115 of the 265 seats. An election this spring has appeared certain, and there was considerable feeling that the U.S. intervention might hurry it. The U.S. statement seemed likely to make nuclear defense a major issue.

PATIENCE RAN OUT

Basically in th opposition parties — the Liberals, Social Credit and the New Democrats — are opposed to arming Canada with nuclear weapons. Pearson, however, has said that since Diefenbaker committed Canada to them some time ago, he should honor the commitment and then negotiate out of the nuclear role.

The view here was that U.S. patience—after several months of talks with the Canadians—had run out. Diplomats said the Kennedy administration appeared well aware that its criticism could stir up anti-American reaction. But they said the administration was prepared to take this risk to get across its point that Canada mus take a bigger part in North American defense.

Scribe Recalls Surrender Of 123,000 Nazi Troops To Russians At Stalingrad

EDITOR'S NOTE—Eddy Gilmore has returned to the Soviet Union, to see some of the areas he covered as a Pulitzer Prize correspondent in the years 1941-53. This is the first of a series of dispatches the AP correspondent will file from time to time. Subsequent stories will tell how the Soviet Union looks 10 years after Stalin's death.

By EDDY GILMORE

STALINGRAD, now Volgograd, U.S.S.R. (AP)—Twenty years ago Thursday, weary, frostbitten and half-starved units of Hitler's once unbeatable army surrendered in the bloodstained ruins of Stalingrad.

The capitulation of the once proud Wehrmacht was a great turning point in the most terrible war in history.

For Germany, the battle of Stalingrad was perhaps its gravest defeat ever.

For the Soviet army, it was the supreme victory.

HOPEFUL DREAM

For a large part of the Free World—staggered by an almost unbroken series of Nazi and Japanese victories—it was the moment when Allied victory became more than a hopeful dream.

Twenty years ago the correspondent—with a few other newsmen stationed in the Soviet Union—slogged through the snow to a small wooden house.

Within that house, in understandable dejection, sat Friedrich von Paulus. A tall, gaunt soldier of the old German army, Von Paulus had commanded Hitler's broken legions, encircled in a temperature of 37 below zero at Stalingrad.

Only a matter of hours before Von Paulus gave up, Hitler made him a field marshal and added, in what must be one of the most hopeless and desperate messages of war.

NEVER SURRENDERED

"Never in history has a German field marshal surrendered."

Neither this nor his elevation to field marshal rallied Von Paulus.

With Soviet artillery pounding the German positions and disaster as apparent as the Soviet winter Von Paulus had turned to his chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Schmidt, and asked:

"What shall we do now?"

"In God's name," replied Schmidt, "send for the Russians."

He did and surrendered.

By Feb. 2, the last German soldier had surrendered at Stalingrad.

I can't remember the exact date, but it must have been just after this that soldiers of Soviet Gen. Chuikov, one of the victors of Stalingrad, led us to Von Paulus' wooden house. After six or eight minutes, the door opened.

LONG, DISMAL LOOK

Still in his uniform, Von Paulus stiffly walked forward a few paces.

Over to one side of the house, an unending stream of German prisoners straggled silently down the short west bank of the Volga and across the ice and a timber bridge to prison camps.

The field marshal gave his men a long, dismal look. Then his gaze slowly turned to us.

One of us who spoke German began what we hoped would be an interview:

"What is your name?"

"Von Paulus," he replied in a flat voice utterly without emotion.

"Why for so long did you refuse to surrender?" someone asked.

123,000

At that the muscles in the field marshal's face tightened and his eyes narrowed, but he made no reply.

Today, 20 years after, you hardly would know Stalingrad was a city in which the Germans lost over 132,000 men and where 123,000 were captured, a city in which men fought hand to hand, from building to building, from room to room.

It has been rebuilt greatly and parks—welcome when the hot winds blow up from the south in summer—cover most of the city battlefield.

An old apartment house and an old factory are preserved as national monuments to the battle that helped turn the tide of World War II.

DIES OF STROKE

A year after his surrender, Von Paulus figured as the chief name in a new Soviet-sponsored "Free Germany Committee." Many former German officers in it became prominent in organizing Communist East Germany.

But Von Paulus apparently spent most of his time in a camp near Moscow until 1953, when he returned to East Germany. He died there of a stroke in February 1957.

In recent years articles in the Soviet press have built up Soviet Premier Khrushchev as the architect of the victory at Stalingrad. In Khrushchev's de-Stalinization campaign the city that was the scene of the great battle was renamed Volgograd.

SEGREGATION IDLES SCHOOL IN LOUISIANA

By BEN THOMAS

BURAS, La. (AP)—Classrooms of Our Lady of Good Harbour Roman Catholic School—once alive with the sounds of children—stand empty as a mute reminder of this town's rigid, century-old belief in segregation.

Pupils haven't appeared for classes in more than two months.

Outside the school, a few pickets gather at the sidewalk each morning. A neatly painted sign tacked to a nearby utility pole reads, "We want our school back."

BUSES GO BY

School buses loaded with noisy children pass back and forth on the busy street, enroute to nearby public schools. Some of the boys and girls once attended the Catholic school.

The school began the fall term Aug. 30, integrated under orders of Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel, head of the archdiocese of New Orleans. Five Negro children and 38 whites appeared on the first day.

ATTENDANCE DWINDLED

Last year 359 children—all white—attended the recently constructed school, which held classes from the first through eighth grades.

The next day, the Rev. Christopher Schneider, young priest from Louisville, Ky., closed the school, saying he feared violence and insufficient police protection.

Classes resumed the following week with the Negro children absent. White attendance dipped slowly until Sept. 15 when none appeared. Public school officials say practically all white pupils from the school have transferred to public schools.

A WAITING GAME

Since then, it has been a waiting game. For weeks, a priest, wearing the brown robes of the Franciscan order, has opened the school doors each morning. Now the priests frequently forego that practice. The number of protestors outside the school—more than 100 at first—is down to less than 10. They vow to maintain their vigil until the archdiocese lifts the integration order.

Other parochial schools in the 11 civil parishes of the archdiocese were desegregated shortly afterwards. The dropping of racial barriers met resistance at a few schools but attendance bounced back after a slight drop.

Why the boycott at Buras? One priest, who asked not to be identified, explained that the nominal Catholics in the area received little if any religious training until 10 years ago.

FALL IN GEORGIA

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Approximately 260 persons were treated at hospitals Wednesday for injuries resulting from falls on patches of ice that formed overnight in the metropolitan Atlanta area.

An estimated one-fourth of the casualties suffered broken bones; the others, bruises, sprains and lacerations.

Ever notice how bakeries line loaf pans in which pound and other varieties of cake are baked so that the paper comes higher than the two narrow sides of the ptn? This trick makes the cake easy to remove.

Let's Look At The Record

EMANCIPATION ANNIVERSARY

Lincoln's Proclamation Is Misunderstood Its Purpose Was To Preserve The Union

By JIM DAN HILL, Ph.D.
President, Wisconsin State College, Superior

THE PRESENT 100th Anniversary of the Slavery Emancipation Proclamation has produced at least one book and much rhetoric with racial overtones. Some is contrary to history.

Mr. Lincoln's Proclamation did not, by the stroke of a pen, "strike the shackles from millions of slaves." Indeed, it was not even President Lincoln's idea of a solution to the problem.

To him, emancipation of the slaves was not even a "war aim." To Lincoln, there was but one purpose in striving for a Northern victory — the preservation of the Union. The document was conceived by him as a politincal move to win a war to preserve the Union.

PRESIDENT LINCOLN was an advocate of "compensated emancipation." The Government should buy and free the slaves. The Republican platform of 1860, on which he was elected, endorsed the idea.

In March, 1862, with the Civil War already a year old, Lincoln sent a special message to Congress urging a Congressional joint resolution pledging Federal funds to any State that adopted a plan of emancipation by purchase.

It was aimed specifically at the slave states still in the Union; Delaware, Maryland, Kentucky and Missouri. Congress complied by passing the resolution, but the border states ignored it.

TWO ARMY GENERALS, wittingly or unwittingly, drove Lincoln to a policy on the question of slavery.

Early in the war, Maj. Gen. John C. Fremont was in command of the West with headquarters at St. Louis. He had White House hopes. On 30 August 1861, he sought to improve Union sentiment in Missouri by declaring all slaves belonging to secessionists free from that date.

The manifesto added to the chaos within divided Missouri. Lincoln countermanded the order. For this Fremont received much praise and Lincoln bitter abuse from the radical Abolitionists.

By early spring of 1862, the Union Army and Navy had established a small beach-head on the Carolina Coast. Maj. Gen. David Hunter expanded the holding by capture of Fort Pulaski, Georgia, and in the process captured many slaves.

By military order he freed them and organized them into a regiment of infantry. It looked like a good idea. Hence he proclaimed all slaves free 19 May 1862, within South Carolina, Geirgia and Florida, in hopes of quickly acquiring a large army of runaway slaves for further conquests.

Lincoln voided the order. He received severe criticism from the highly articulate, minority group of Northern Abolitionists.

THROUGH the summer that followed, Lincoln was confronted by a series of disastrous Union Army defeats. Further public abuse followed on all subjects. The Abolitionists spearheaded all attacks.

Under these pressures, Lincoln began toying with a statement of policy on the slavery issue. Secretary of State Seward, with an eye on foreign opinion, urged delay.

"It may be viewed as the last measure of an exhausted government, a cry for help," Seward argued. On this note, lincoln shelved the idea. When General McClellan won at Antietam, Lincoln published a Proclamation, 22 September 1862, announcing all slaves in states and regions still in rebellion as of January 1863 should become free. Details would follow in January.

THUS the Emancipation Proclamation of January 1863 was no more than a follow-up document to a policy already announced. Moreover, it predicated Negro freedom exclusively upon further conquests.

It freed no slave where Union authority actually prevailed in Delaware, Maryland, Kentucky, Missouri, Tennessee, the 48 counties of Western Virginia and the Virginia counties within Union troop lines in North Virginia and the Norfolk area. Slaves within Union Army lines in Louisiana likewise continued in bondage.

The highly critical New York Herald was correct in editorializing: ". . . the Proclamation leaves slavery untouched where his (Lincoln's) decree can be enforced; he emancipates slaves where his decree cannot be enforced."

In the South, the Proclamation solidified opinion and intensified resistance. It was viewed as a bid for slave revolts. "Southern people have now only to choose between victory and death," declared the Richmond Examiner.

Lincoln had constitutional qualms about the Proclamation. He justified it as being within his war powers as commander-in-chief of the armed forces. Meanwhile, the bitterness of warfare was expanding emancipation into a Northern war aim, just as F.D.R.'s Casa Blanca "unconditional surrender" speech was propagandized into a war aim through 1943.

The constitutional abolition came with the Thirteenth Amendment, 18 December 1865, nine months after Lincoln's death.

Fumes Floor 38 Indiana Workers

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—Carbon monoxide fumes from a gas heating system got into a factory air conditioner system Wednesday and overcame 38 missile parts workers.

Four ambulances took the victims to Culver Hospital, but all except two were released after treatment. The two, Betty Peacock and Lucille Foster, were to be held overnight, but doctors said their condition was not serious.

Atmospheric conditions were blamed for pressing the fumes from the heating system into an air intake pipe at the Plastene Corp. plant.

ANNUAL COOKIE SALE IS BEGUN BY GIRL SCOUTS

The Penn Laurel Girl Scout Council, of which Littlestown is a member, is making preparations for the 1963 Girl Scout cookie sale to be conducted starting February 23d.

Camping has always been a very important part of the Girl Scout Movement and the funds necessary to provide camp sites and camping facilities are chiefly a result of an annual sale of Girl Scout cookies. Many of the facilities available to the 20,000 Girl Scouts of the Penn Laurel Council are results of successful cookie sales in the past. A successful sale this year year will be necessary in order to carry out the developments and improvements planned for in the 1963 camping budget. The Girl Scout membership is rapidly increasing. By 1965 it is estimated that there will be 25,000 Girl Scouts in the Penn Laurel Council.

Mrs. Chester S. Byers, E Myrtle St., is the neighborhood cookie chairman. Selling aids have arrived and can be picked up at the home of Mrs. Byers at any time.

TO TAKE ORDERS

The cookie sale is an order taking sale and the first order is to be submitted to the troop chairmen by March 11. Girl Scouts will take orders beginning on Saturday, February 23: the cookies will be delivered to the troop cookie chairman during the week of April 1; reorders can be filled until April 22; the price of the cookies will be 45 cents per box and the varieties include butter-flavored vanilla, assorted sandwich, fudge-filled sandwich, frosted shortbread and cooky-mints; all baked to order for the Penn Laurel Girl Scouts by the Keebler Biscuit Company.

Of the 45 cents per box, 5 cents is profit to the troop and helps finance camping, special projects and trips; 19 9/10 cents, development and maintenance of eight camp sites; 3/10 cents administrative costs; 19 8/10 cents cost of cookies and services provided by the Keebler Biscuit Co.

PROJECT AIMS

The cookie sale is a cooperative project to raise money needed by all local Girl Scout troops to:

Keep a variety of camping opportunities within the reach of all girls throughout the Penn Laurel Girl Scout Council, and to help keep fees at a minimum. There are many things to do at camp with a choice of activities for each age and special units for older Scouts. All activities are planned and carried out by the girls in small groups with adult guidance. The sale helps provide financial assistance, camperships to troop and individual girls who could not otherwise afford to go to camp; provides troop income for camp and other troop activities, community projects and service to others; cookie sale earnings also help to make possible Girl Scout opportunities on a national and international level.

HINT PACT IS NEAR IN PHILLY TRANSIT FUSS

HARRISBURG (AP)— Negotiators headed back to the bargaining tables today with at least one side hinting at a possible settlement in Philadelphia's 18-day transit strike.

And Philadelphia area residents breathed a bit easier as another threatened strike to a suburban transit line was temporarily averted as workers agreed to continue working temporarily without an agreement.

Mayor James H. J. Tate of Philadelphia was called to the capitol today, adding to speculation that a settlement may be near.

In Harrisburg, where negotiators were summoned by Gov. William W. Scranton, Michael J. Quill, president of the Transport Workers Union, seemed optimistic. "With a little more good will on the part of management I feel an agreement can be reached . . ." said Quill.

Asked whether he meant by "good will" more "bending" on the part of the management of Philadelphia Transportation Co., the struck firm, Quill replied:

"A little more bending, yes, that would be a good word."

Management was tighter lipped, but one PTF official voiced some guarded optimism. David Phillips, assistant to the company president, said, "I think there has been progress, but some problems remain."

The union, whose 5,600 members walked out Jan. 15, originally sought a 75 cent an hour wage increase and a cut in the work week and other benefits. The company has insisted on elimination of a no-layoff clause in the present contract.

Present scales are $2.25 to $2.75 an hour.

NEWS STRIKE TALKS REOPEN AFTER RECESS

NEW YORK (AP) — Mediation meetings in the 56-day-old newspaper blackout resume at City Hall today after a one-day break to allow both sides time for reflection.

The latest official word on the situation from Mayor Robert F. Wagner was: "We have made progress but it must be emphasized in all candor that the parties are still a long way from settling this dispute."

"Two critical issues remain unresolved," Wagner said. He did not list the issues.

The mayor's mediation schedule today included meetings with subcommittees of the Publishers Association of New York City, which represents the closed nine major newspapers, and of the striking Local 6 of the AFL-CIO International Typographical Union.

AWAITS RESULTS

Wagner has said that after hearing reports from these subcommittees he will decide on his next steps in efforts to break the deadlock.

In Cleveland, no progress was reported in efforts to end the nine-week-old blackout of the city's two newspapers, the Plain Dealer and the Press & News.

Four unions — the Newspaper Guild, the Printers and the Mailers, all AFL-CIO units, and the independent Teamsters — are on strike against the two dailies. Contracts of all 12 newspaper unions had expired as of last midnight. Two expired at midnight, and 10 previously.

The key issue of union security was discussed at Cleveland City Hall again Thursday by negotiators for the Guild and the publishers. The groups meet at City Hall again today.

Trapeze Artist Rides High Voltage Wire To Freedom

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BERLIN (AP)—Sliding along on the seat of his pants, an East German trapeze artist fled over the heads of Communist border guards into West Berlin on a 110,000-volt power cable.

"I could hear humming and had a tickling sensation in my seat," said Horst Klein, 36.

One slip and Klein would have burned to a crisp.

RISKED DEATH

A professional trapeze artist, Klein had been forbidden to work in East German circuses because he was an outspoken anti-Communist.

"I couldn't live any longer without the smell of the circus in my nostrils," he said.

On the night of Dec. 27 he climbed a steel power pylon on the Communist side of the Berlin wall and leaped to the big porcelain insulator on the cable.

"I knew that if I touched the tower and the cable at the same time, I would be turned to ashes," he told newsmen Thursday night.

ON SEAT OF PANTS

From the insulator, Klein eased himself down onto the cable and slid 70 yards on the seat of his pants to another insulator then he jumped to a second tower.

His hands were numbing fast in the 7-degree cold.

Below him, two East German guards patrolled the wire barricades facing West Berlin's Teltow Canal. Klein was above the beams of the border searchlights.

Past the second tower, Klein slid another 30 yards, then hooked his legs over the cable and began to work a rope he had coiled around his chest.

BROKE HIS ARMS

He threw the rope across the cable in an effort to lower himself down into the Western zone. But his numbed hands missed the rope and he plunged 40 feet to the canal towpath in the West, only a few feet beyond a clump of bushes marking the border.

Klein came to three hours later and shouted for help. A woman heard him and called West German police. A fire brigade took him across the canal in a rubber boat.

In the fall Klein broke his arms. His story came out after it became known that the East Berlin police had learned of his escape route.

Fish Assaults Anglers In Boat

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — James Palmer of Akron and James Fox of Kent had this one to tell after a fishing trip in Canada:

Returning at nightfall after a day's fishing in the Percy Boom area, they were startled when a big fish—probably a muskellunge — flopped into their boat. It swatted Fox in the face with its tail and broke Palmer's fishing rod, then flipped out of the boat and swam off.

SYMPATHETIC CHAPLAIN IN OHIO HOUSE

By PHIL GUNBY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—When the new chaplain of the Ohio House of Representatives rises to lead prayer these days, lawmakers can be sure that he is aware of their problems, perplexities and pressures.

Calvin Whitefield Didier (pronounced Dee-dee-a) had been on the other side of the rostrum as a state legislator in Indiana.

From that experience, the young Presbyterian minister says, he gained "an appreciation of how easy it is to preach in terms of right and wrong, but how difficult it is in political life for even good men to accomplish what they wish."

HIS INTENTION

On the other hand, he says that, as a legislator, he saw possibilities of accomplishing more in some areas than one might "in a lifetime in the ministry."

As for the challenging assignment of offering prayer at the start of each day's floor session in the House, the new chaplain says:

"My intention is to offer prayer in such a way as to speak not only to God, but from the lives and affairs of contemporary men."

INDIANA LEGISLATOR

Now pastor of Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church on Columbus' west side, the Rev. Mr. Didier was minister of a La Porte, Ind., church when Republican officials asked him to enter the primary for state representative from Indiana's La Porte and Starke counties.

Concerned over what it might mean to his future as a minister, he waited until the last minute to file, "hoping they'd find someone else." He won the 1960 primary and general election, winning the seat whose previous occupants he had watched — and sometimes criticized — long before being asked to become a candidate.

During the first quarter of 1961, he spent weekdays in Indianapolis and preached Sundays at Hoge Memorial Church, which had asked him to become its minister late in 1960.

When the Indiana Legislature adjourned, the Rev. Mr. Didier's political career for all practical purposes came to and end.

Aware of his background, Ohio Republicans—who have the legislative majority—asked him to succeed the Rev. Rudy H. Thomas, who moved to California after the 1961 session of the Ohio General Assembly. As chaplain, he receives $100 a month during the session.

The son and grandson of ministers, the Rev. Mr. Didier was ordained in May 1954 with his brothers Ralph and Bernard by Detroit Presbytery.

He and his wife Arlene have five children.

BOY PILOT IS KILLED WHEN PLANE CRASHES

By DAVE FARMER

BREA, Calif. (AP)—Just before Christmas, 17-year-old John Nash took a ride in a sight-seeing plane.

"He came home thrilled to death about it," said his mother, Mrs. George Nash. "The next day he signed up for flying lessons."

John financed his flying lessons by selling his car, piece by piece—starting with a special four-speed transmission.

The Nashes say their son was always full of energy and adventure. He ran away from home at 15, and once drove off in one of the family's cars and stayed four days. After stripping his car and selling the parts to friends, he withdrew his savings from a bank and invested $350 in flying lessons at Fullerton Municipal Airport.

His instructor, Robert Langson, called John "one of the best student pilots we've ever had."

Last Sunday, Nash took off from nearby San Juan Capistrano on a solo flight to Apple Valley, Calif., that would qualify him for his pilot's license.

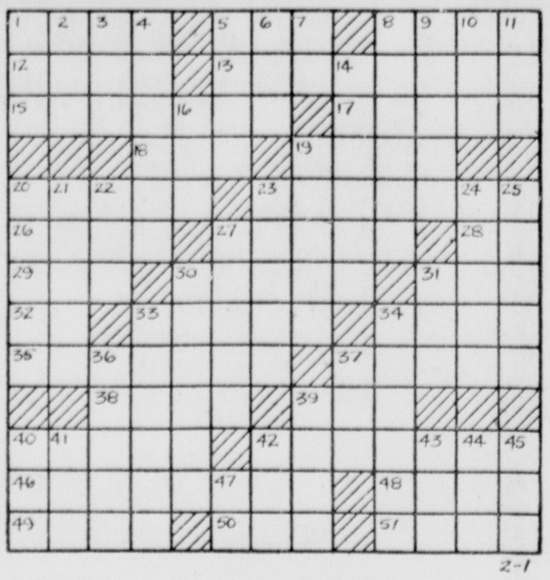

The plane disappeared.

On Wednesday a helicopter spotted Nash's rented Cessna 150. It had crashed into the side of 3,500-foot Sitton Peak, about 25 miles from where it took off at San Capistrano.

Funeral services will be conducted Saturday for John Nash, the boy who was "thrilled to death" about flying.

PEDESTRIAN IS KILLED BY POLE

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A traffic light pole, felled by a car carrying two schoolgirls, fatally injured a pedestrian at a downtown intersection Thursday.

Officers twice pursued and caught the driver, 15, and her companion, 14.

The left leg of Eva Thompson, 54, a widow, was nearly amputated by the pole. She died at a hospital three hours later.

Capt. Frank Martin said the older girl told him she had driven a car only once before. The vehicle hit the pole while trying to round a corner.

The stepfather of the 14-year-old girl told police the car was taken without his permission.

Both girls were turned over to juvenile authorities. Unless a criminal complaint is filed, state law prohibits publication of their names.

Adams County National Bank likes to make new friends: and we like to keep the friends we have by serving them well. The bank can be a friend to all the family. By strict definition, a banker is a person who works in a bank; but, like doctor and lawyer, butcher and baker, he can be defined in human terms, too. Like them—like you—he has a genuine interest in the welfare of his neighbors and their families; a genuine desire to extend a helping hand with their problems, whenever it's wanted. And unlike other friends, he can share with his neighbors the fruits of specialized experience with money matters.

No depositor is too young, no account too small, to enjoy the benefits of our sincere friendly interest. Come in and see us often, Nancy—Junior, Mother, and Dad. Let Adams County National Bank be a family friend.

A Bit Of History About Early Settlers

By B. F. M. MacPHERSON

TOM'S CREEK AND THE REV. GRIER

The account of Lower Marsh Creek and Tom's Creek Presbyterian churches, their brief union, and the work of the Rev. William Paxton within the bounds of both congregations is continued at this time.

In 1792 the Rev. Paxton took charge of the joint churches and ministered to them "with great assiduity" for some four years. In 1796 the congregation of Lower Marsh Creek, desirous of "obtaining the full labors" of the minister applied to the Presbytery to have the connection with Tom's Creek dissolved. Lower Marsh Creek offered to raise "a support of one hundred and fifty pounds." This desire on the part of the York (now Adams) County church didnot meet with the approval of Tom's Creek and the latter congregation "earnestly remonstrated against any disturbance of the existing relation." After a full and patient hearing of the Rev. Mr. Paxton and of the commissioners on both sides, the Presbytery decided to grant the prayer" of Lower Marsh Creek. The pastoral relation with Tom's Creek was accordingly dissolved.

HAD NO MINISTER

From 1796 to 1800 Tom's Creek Church was without a "settled" minister. Among the supplies who preached there during this period were FFrancis Herron, David McConaughty, and the Rev. Matthew Brown. The next pastor of the church was the Rev. Patrick Davidson and he was ordained and installed on October 7, 1800. In 1809, however, Mr. Davidson was elected principal of the Frederick Academy — accepted the position — and moved to Frederick, Maryland, to take over his new post.

In 1801, while under the pastorate of the Rev. Davidson, Tom's Creek united with Piney Creek church and from that time on one minister served both congregations. This arrangement proved of benefit to both.

The next pastor was the Rev. Robert Smith Grier, an outstanding and faithful minister. When the Rev. Grier first came into the vicinity of Tom's Creek he was a licentiate of the Presbytery of New Castle. He appeared at Gettysburg, April 14, 1813, and obtained leave to "labor within the bounds of the Presbytery of Carlisle." On April 12, 1814, he (Rev. Grier) accepted to Tom's Creek and Piney Creek, each church promising him an annual salary of three hundred dollars.

QUIET PASTORATE

The pastorate of the Rev. Grier, though covering more than half a century, was a quiet and uneventful one. He lived, during a large part of his ministry, upon his farm, located three miles north of Emmitsburg, over the Mason and Dixon line. Mr. Grier was three times married — each time into one of the fine old families of the neighborhood. The graves of Rev. Grier, his wives, and several of his children are in the old Tom's Creek Churchyard — the family plot being enclosed by a black iron fence.

The Rev. Robert Smith Grier was the elder son of the Rev. Nathan and Susannah (Smith) Grier and was born at Brandywine Manor, Chester County, Pennsylvania, May 11, 1790. His father was pastor of the Presbyterian Church at the Forks of the Brandywine. Mr. Grier's preparative education was obtained at the Brandywine Academy and he was graduated from Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pennsylvania, in 1809. He studied theology under his father and was licensed by the Presbytery of New Castle in September, 1812. In 1814 he was "received under the care" of the Presbytery of Carlisle and that same year accepted calls to Tom's Creek and Piney Creek Churches. This was his only charge and he served it well and faithfully — if quietly.

SEVERAL MARRIAGES

The Rev. Grier was first married to Elizabeth Laverty, by whom he had twi sons and three daughters, Susan, Mary and Jane Grier. Susan Grier married the Rev. John R. Marsden, the priest at old Christ Episcopal Church, near York Springs. The other daughters, Mary and Jane Grier, died unmarried and are buried in Tom's Creek Cemetery. The first Mrs. Grier died September 25, 1830, and Mr. Grier was married, for the second time, to Jane Annan. To this union a son and daughter were born. The boy died young and the daughter, Ann Margaret Grier, married Major O. A. Horner, of Emmitsburg, Maryland. The third wife was Mrs. Margaret Stewart, a widow, and she survived her husband, who died not too long after their marriage.

After the death of the Rev. Mr. Grier both congregations were supplied for a few months by Rev. Daniel B. Jackson, then a licentiate. The Rev. Isaac M. Patterson was called by both churches in 1866, accepted and his pastorate continued for some seven years. In 1867 Tom's Creek Church changed its name to "Emmitsburg Presbyterian Church." Thus another of the old names was lost to posterity.

ERECT NEW CHURCH

Sme years ago the old church edifice, near the present site of the churchyard, was torn down and a new church built in the town of Emmitsburg. The old burial ground, in the main, is well kept and a few of the old families continue to bury therein.

This concludes, for the time being at least, the notes on Tom's Creek Presbyterian Church.

Meanwhile, the Lower Marsh Creek Presbyterian Church, under the care of the Rev. William Paxton, continued to flourish. Apparently it was a case of the "right man in the right job."

Two years after he became pastor of Lower Marsh Creek church, the Rev. Paxton was married, on January 20, 1794, to Jane Dunlap, the daughter of Colonel James Dunlap, who resided near Shippensburg, Pennsylvania. Four years before this marriage took place Nancy Dunlap, the sister of Rev. Paxton's bride, was married to James Harris. In accordance with an Act of Assembly, then in existence, a marriage bond was executed on June 10, 1790. Because of its historical value this document will be given in full in next week's column.

The notes on Lower Marsh Creek under the pastoral care of the Rev. Dr. William Paxton will be continued in this column next week. To a very great extent the years Mr. Paxton spent at Lower Marsh Creek were outstanding ones in the history of this congregation.

James MARLOW Reports

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Russians and Red Chinese weren't getting along but after one look over the Berlin wall at what's happening in the West they can start dancing in the streets.

It's a mess.

Away back in the summer of 1961 President Kennedy was anxious to work out some settlement with the Russians on Berlin. French President Charles de Gaulle disdained to take part. West Germany belittled American ideas and efforts.

WAS BURNED UP

By last May Kennedy was so burned up he told a news confrnce:

"It isn't ifficult to say you shouldn't do this or that, and at the same time some countries do not play as active a role as we've been willing to play in an attempt to work this out."

Just a few days before, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara had taken a swipe at this country's NATO allies for not meeting their agreements in providing forces for the alliance.

The United States had 400,000 troops in West Germany, the British only 51,000, and De Gaulle, busy with a war in Algeria, had his troops there. NATO is supposed to have 30 divisions, it has only 24.

WAS MIFFED ANYWAY

De Gaulle was miffed at the United States anyway. He's trying to make France a nuclear power and the United States wouldn't share its atomic know-how with him.

The United States promised to put five of its Polaris missile submarines into the NATO defense, but under American command—although under the technical control of NATO.

This country wasn't happy at the thought of its various NATO partners eventually all having nuclear forces of their own. So last November it suggested an integrated European nuclear force within the NATO framework.

WOULD BE BLOW

This would be a blow to De Gaulle's ambitions for a strictly French nuclear striking force. Kennedy was still bothered by the NATO partners' failure to put their share of conventional forces, like troops, into NATO.

He said so in his televised interview in December. He said the six American divisions in NATO are the best equipped and "they can fight tomorrow, which is not true of most of the other units."

Then, reviewing all this country has done over 15 years to help Western Europe with men, money and weapons, he said "I think it is a fantastic story."

OFFERED POLARIS

Americans felt the NATO forces were so understrength they would have trouble blunting even a mod erate Soviet attack.

But it was also in December that Kennedy offered both the British and the French Polaris missiles. They'd have to make their own nuclear warheads for them. The British bought the idea. Not the French.

De Gaulle said that would take some thinking.

Still up in the air was the idea if a multinational nuclear defense in Europe. Meanwhile, Britain wanted to get into the European Common Market with France, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, Luxembourg and the Netherlands.

EUROPE FOR EUROPEANS

Then De Gaulle let go: He wanted no part of the American idea of a multinational nuclear defense, he didn't want the Polaris missiles, and he didn't want Britain in the Common Market. In effect, what he said was: He wanted a Europe for the Europeans.

This also, in effect, said he considered the British outsiders. It could even be taken to mean he wanted the United States to get its troops out of Europe although France couldn't even defend itself against Russian attack without U.S. help.

Kennedy in a news conference last week snapped at De Gaulle. And Wednesday British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan took a hard poke at him without mentioning him by name.

OTHERS BURNED UP

The Belgians, the Italians and the West Germans were burned up at the frenchman. The French sat pat. The United States put on the air that things would work out. The British didn't know what was going to happen.
